MAN'S LIFE RESTS ON EIGHTH EFFORT TO INFUSE BLOOD

Barnes Physicians, After Seven Transfusions, Confer on Final Chance to Save Matthew O'Day.

FELLOW WORKERS AMONG VOLUNTEERS

Parish Priest Submits to Three Operations — 18
Women Respond to "Ad" in Post-Dispatch.

Today brought a crisis in the long and dramatic fight of friends and strangers to save the life of Matthew O'Day, a clerk, of 5200 Pauline place, who, since last Dec. 13, has undergone no fewer than seven blood transfusions in the effort to stem the drain of pernicious anemia, an insidious malady that literally dries the veins.

If physicians at Barnes Hospital decide, at their consultation today, that O'Day cannot stand the eighth transfusion, it means that the battle has been lost. An examination late yesterday showed the patient to be rapidly sinking.

The terse, scientifically phrased notes that record the history of the case but inadequately suggest the vivid story of devotion—devotion not only on the part of a man's friends, but also of kindly strangers, a persevering social service worker who would not give up the fight to save him, and of a heroic young parish priest who on three separate occasions lay down the operating table beside his parishioner and permitted his own blood to ebb into the latter's veins.

All Assistance Volunteered.
The case is interesting as an example of what may be done for a deserving person who is helpless except for the aid which comes from the sources of philanthropy. All that has been done for O'Day has been done without pay.

When he was received at Barnes Hospital last June he had been married about a year. His wife was the mother of a 10-weeks-old child. He had not yet finished paying for the furniture which they obtained at the time of their marriage. He was 39 years old, and employed as a shipping clerk at the Wagner Electric Co.

After being discharged from the hospital he attempted to return to work, but soon was incapacitated, and appeared in the hospital clinic for treatment in November. Because of the circumstances, the attention of Mrs. Anna Kaplan, a worker of the Washington University social service department, was called to the case. This department operates in connection with the dispensary, and Mrs. Kaplan's efforts in this case are said to be illustrative of the regular nature of the work.

Physicians examined O'Day and declared that only a blood transfusion could save him. He had no relatives. It fell to Mrs. Kaplan to find the precious fluid. She went to the Wagner plant and related the circumstances to M. T. Harvey, the traffic superintendent. O'Day's superior. She hoped that some of O'Day's fellow workers would be willing to donate their blood.

Situation Explained to Workers.
"I'll give some myself," said Harvey promptly. "If you need any more, then we'll ask the men. O'Day is well liked around here." It was explained to him that certain types of blood won't do for another man. Tests must first be made. So Harvey went to the shipping department, and told "the boys."

A dozen men responded. The tests at the hospital showed that Harvey himself was the best specimen, so on Dec. 13, one end of a tube was inserted in his arm, the other end in his employee's arm, and something more than a pint of blood flowed into the fainting line.

A week later the operation was repeated, and this time a half pint was taken from each of two donors, one of whom was Anthony Saunders of 405 North Main place, a fellow clerk of O'Day, and another Wagner employee, whose name could not be learned. Soon afterward the patient left the hospital much improved.

But pernicious anemia is a persistent enemy, which works sometimes slowly, sometimes swiftly, but never ceases, and in early March O'Day was back at clinic, white and weak. More blood, and the patient said, and again it was up to Mrs. Kaplan. Meantime, she had invoked the assistance of the Catholic Women's League in behalf of the O'Day family.

Father Carty Gives Blood.
Harvey was willing to give more blood, but his wife said he had done enough. Employees at the plant were willing, but the test disqualified them. Mrs. Kaplan went to see

MILCH COW KEPT IN FIFTH AVENUE HOME

BY HENRY C. FRICK
Fact Brought Out in Testimony at Hearing to Determine Financier's Residence.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 27.—Some-where in the palatial Fifth avenue mansion owned during his life by Henry Clay Frick, former financier, there once dwelt a milk cow.

This fact was learned today when testimony before Surrogate James A. Foley relative to whether Frick was a resident of New York or Pennsylvania at the time of his death, was made public. A decision has not been reached.

What part of the mansion, which also held the unparalleled private art collection of Frick, was used as the cow's quarters, was not brought out in the testimony, but it was learned that the animal was kept there to make sure of fresh milk for the household.

BIGAMY CHARGED IN WARRANT AGAINST EIGHT WEEKS' BRIDE

Husband Complains Against Girl, 17
—Her Two Young Women Companions Released.

A warrant was issued today charging Mrs. Jessie Patterson Uphoff, 17 years old, with bigamy. She was arrested on complaint of her latest husband, William Christian Uphoff, 3224 Magazine street, and has an office in the Walworth Building.

He described his bride of eight weeks as a "motor cycle fiend," and declared that when she left their home two weeks ago she took considerable linen and other articles with her. He caused the arrest of Rose Kirchner, 20 years old, and Helen Guber, 19, with whom Mrs. Uphoff went to room at 824 Chouteau avenue, when she left him.

The three young women admitted their fondness for riding tandem on motorcycles owned by young men of their acquaintance, but denied any thefts of Uphoff's possessions.

In complaining of the disappearance of the articles, Uphoff declared to the police that he had learned, since his marriage, that his bride had not been divorced from A. Frank Patterson of Chicago, Ill., to whom he said she was married in 1920. Patterson verified this by wire, and the warrant was issued.

Upon Mrs. Uphoff's statement that the three young women had nothing to do with the disappearance of the articles from Chicago, Ill., to whom he said she was married in 1920. Patterson verified this by wire, and the warrant was issued.

SAFE-BLOWER TAKEN BY DETECTIVES IN CANDY STORE BLIND

Frederick J. Connors, Known to Police of Country as
"New York Blackie," Arrested at 1714 N. Taylor.

EXPLOSIVES AND TOOLS ARE SEIZED

Prisoner Tells Where More
"Soup" Is Buried in Shed and Police Find 7 Ounces of Nitroglycerin.

Frederick J. Connors, a notorious safe-blower, known at times as Frederick O'Connor, and widely known among safe-blowers and yegmen as "New York Blackie," was arrested at 11:30 o'clock last night in a small candy and notion store at 1714 North Taylor avenue which the police believe he was running as a "blind" for the last eight months while blowing safes in St. Louis.

Dynamite, nitroglycerin and tools such as are often used by burglars and safe-blowers were found in the store and in a room back of it. The raid was personally conducted by Detective Chief Hoagland, recently promoted to that position. With Hoagland at the front door was his former walking partner, Acting Lieut. Vasey. Guarding the rear door were Acting Lieut. Walton and Detectives Girard and Ising, all of the new homicide squad. Vasey and Girard had riot guns and the others revolvers.

Chief Hoagland knocked at the door. A man inside asked what was wanted and Hoagland said: "The building is on fire." "I don't see any fire," replied the man inside. "Well," said Vasey, "smoke is coming from the back door."

The door was then opened and Connors confronted the detectives. He had an automatic pistol in his hand and another in his pocket. Vasey pressed the muzzle of a riot gun against Connors, who surrendered without attempting to use his weapon. A third automatic pistol was found under a bed in the middle room.

While searching this room the detectives heard a woman crying. In the kitchen they found a young woman, almost blind, who said she was Connors' wife. She told them that before marrying Connors eight months ago she was a pantry girl at the Hotel Jefferson. Since her marriage, she said, Connors had not permitted her to leave the house. She said he always carried a pistol when he went out.

Dynamite Under Kitchen Floor.
In a small drawer under the store counter the detectives found a four-ounce bottle of nitroglycerin wrapped in a baby's stocking. They noticed that a part of the kitchen floor had been removed and put down again. They tore up this section and under it they found 16 sticks of dynamite wrapped in oiled paper. In the store and living room they found percussion caps and fuses.

Some of the articles found were wrapped in rags which matched the goods of a "homemade sack" found on the roof of the Missouri Packing Co. plant, 2734 Franklin avenue, March 14 last, after an attempt had been made to blow the safe there. On the packing company roof also was found an overcoat with a special lining in one of the pockets. Goods matching this lining was found in Connors' store.

Goods of Peculiar Fabric.
This goods is regarded as most damaging evidence against Connors. It is chintz or a similar fabric with a pattern of large flowers, making it possible to match it with the sack containing burglar tools which was found on the packing house roof. The police say the patterns are an exact match and the same goods was used in lining the pocket of the overcoat, which fits Connors.

Connors today asked to be taken before Detective Chief Hoagland. "I am no murderer," he said, "and I don't want anybody to get killed. I've got 'soup' enough out there to blow up the West End. I want you to let me go."

Connors gave minute directions as to where nitroglycerin was buried in a shed back of the store. "You'll see a large lump of coal a little way off from the main pile," he said. "One foot east of this lump you will see some freshly turned earth. Dig down eight inches and you'll find a bottle of nitroglycerin. Get it quick. Some sucker might stick a pick in it and blow up the neighborhood."

Detective Sergeant Walton followed the directions and found an 8-ounce bottle containing seven ounces of nitroglycerin. He took it to police headquarters.

The Bertillon record at Police Headquarters shows that Connors was sent to the Indiana State Reformatory.

FIVE-YEAR TERM BEGAN IN MARCH, 1919

Harry Quick, Caught in Hold-up, Was Said to Be of Good Family — Prison
Guards Favored Release.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 27.—It became known today that F. Harry Quick, who pleaded guilty in St. Louis to robbery in the first degree in February, 1919, and was sentenced to serve five years in the State penitentiary from March 25, 1919, was released Tuesday under a commutation of his sentence by Gov. Hyde.

In the files on the case were two letters from Gov. Hyde to the State Prison Board about the case, and letters to Gov. Hyde from United States Senator Harry S. New and Gov. Warren T. McCray of Indiana, as well as two presidents and one vice president of Indianapolis banks. No recommendations from the Circuit Attorney or sentencing Judge in St. Louis appeared in the files.

Quick was 30 years old when he began his sentence. According to the papers, he previously had served a term in the Indiana reformatory at Jeffersonville, Ind., and was paroled to Owen J. Conrad of Indianapolis, which is the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Quick.

Long list of petitioners, friends of Mr. and Mrs. Quick, who had asked McCray to use his best efforts to have young Quick released, is a part of the record.

Gov. Hyde's first letter to the State Prison Board, dated April 2, followed by a second dated April 10, 1921.

"I would like to have a report on F. Harry Quick. I met this man's father in Indianapolis. The father was introduced by Senator New, who vouched for the excellent standing of the man's family."

Again on May 14 Quick's case was brought before the board. "Attached is some correspondence relative to the Quick case. Please give me the board's action on this, favorable or unfavorable."

On May 23 the board recommended commutation of Quick's sentence. Three guards and three shop foremen of the penitentiary signed a recommendation for the release. Gov. Hyde was not in Jefferson City today.

Former Lieutenant Governor Painter, chairman of the State Prison Board, asked today why the board had recommended Quick's release in the absence of recommendations from the Circuit Attorney and Judge in St. Louis, said that all the details had been left in the hands of J. Kelly Pool, secretary of the board, who is in St. Louis today. Painter said this was what is regarded as a "courtesy parole" and that Pool had talked with Gov. Hyde several times about it, then discussing the matter with the board.

Painter said he assumed that the commutation had been granted more on the strength of the recommendations of the "Indiana folks" than anything else. It has been the practice of the board to leave most of the details connected with parole matters in Pool's hands, as secretary.

Quick and another man, who gave his name as John Klein, were captured Feb. 1919, when they were going to rob the saloon of Theodore Meyer, 1219 Linden street. Two policemen were passing the place when Meyer, the proprietor, called to them from a room above the place and said two robbers were holding up the saloon.

Quick and the other man were charged jointly in two informations with robbery in the first degree, and on March 25, 1919, the other case against Quick was dismissed, and the case against the other man was dismissed.

$56,000 FOR HEIRS OF THE AUTHOR OF "SWEET BYE AND BYE"

Settlement of Suit Against Publishers, Started by Widow Now
Dead, Made After 15 Years.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, May 27.—Heirs of Joseph P. Webster, whose hymn, "In the Sweet Bye and Bye," has been a favorite for half a century, yesterday settled a suit against the Oliver Ditson Co., music publishers, of this city, which had been before the Federal Court for 15 years.

The action was brought by Joan H. Webster, widow of the author, to obtain an accounting from the publishers, who had taken over the rights of a Chicago house with whom Webster had a contract. The settlement, attorneys said, involved a payment of $56,000.

Mrs. Webster and many of the 20 attorneys who at one time or another were connected with the case have died since the suit was instituted in 1906. Louis Webster of Elk-horn, Wis., one of the heirs, was in court when the settlement was recorded.

ST. LOUIS AERIAL MAIL MAY BE DISCONTINUED JUNE 30

Funds Not Available Unless Congress Makes Specific Appropriation for Purpose.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, May 27.—Unless Congress appropriates funds specifically for the Twin Cities-Chicago-St. Louis Air Mail route, it is probable the service will be discontinued June 30. The expenses are being met now from the railway mail appropriation and officials of the department are unwilling to go ahead in this fashion.

"We are obliged to economize wherever possible and I cannot see where the necessary money will come from," said Second Assistant Postmaster-General Shaunessey today. "Certainly we cannot take it from the railway mail appropriation any longer."

The situation in regard to the Twin Cities-St. Louis mail service was made known following an announcement today that the Washington-New York route will be suspended June 1 because of lack of funds. The 1922 appropriation which will be available July 1 is for the trans-continental route alone.

The new pick-up squad will be under the direction of Acting Lieut. Vasey and its principal duty will be picking up confidence men and pick-pockets.

Detective Sergeant John Roach has been placed in charge of the revived gambling squad and Detective Sergeant Oscar Collard will command the morality squad.

COMMON HONESTY MUST BE OBSERVED

Admonition to Minority of Business Men and Workmen; Economy Keynote of Quick Recovery, Schwab
Says.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 27.—Full return to satisfactory business conditions will be slow until the minority of business men and workmen who have ignored the principles of common honesty are aroused to the necessity of sound and decent standard of conduct, according to Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel Corporation.

Speaking today before the American Iron and Steel Institute, Gary, who is president of the institute, said the American people are not buying enough to supply themselves fully with the ordinary comforts of life, although they have the disposition and the means to do so. This, he explained, was due to the opinion of the purchasing public that there has not been complete and proper readjustments of prices.

"There is an abundance of new business," he said, "with both ability and inclination to place it, waiting for further adjustments which will put costs of living, selling prices, wage rates and other general incomes on a relative parity."

Present steel selling prices, Gary declared, will not permit any reduction until wages are further decreased.

Many Retail Prices Too High.
Retail prices for many commodities are much too high, Gary declared.

"The public is aware of the facts," he said. "Different products have been purchased from the farmer, manufacturer or others at low costs and then passed on in one way or another and finally sold to the consumer at outrageous prices."

The speaker asserted that one of the most hopeful signs of the times was the apparent disposition of the present administration at Washington to aid rather than obstruct the natural and legitimate progress of business.

Schwab's View of Conditions.
Economy is the keynote of quick recovery of business, said Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Co.

There must be economy in labor, and above all in transportation, Schwab declared, adding that the steel business would profit by the economy to which it was forced.

"We are going to be forced to economize so as to put our business here on a basis of parity with the steel business in other countries," he explained.

"This is a time for encouragement, a time to be hopeful, a time to be optimistic, and we will all come out all right. I have never lost faith in the future of the industry or the future of America."

PREACHER, ON STAIRS, SAVES MAN FROM MOB

Commissioner of Hospital in Mississippi Points Pistol at Men Seeking Prisoner.

By the Associated Press.

HATTIESBURG, Miss., May 27.—The Rev. Dr. G. S. Harmon, a Methodist preacher of this city, stood pistol in hand at the head of a flight of stairs, at the top of which, on a cot lay Casey E. Jones, under charges of the attempted murder of Mrs. J. S. Mosely yesterday, and stood off a party of masked men seeking the prisoner. Jones was wounded by J. S. Mosely, husband of the victim, from the Methodist Hospital, where he is held under guard.

Dr. Harmon, commissioner of the hospital, had been out of the city, returned last night, and was told of the shooting yesterday morning. On learning of the feeling against Jones, he decided to move the prisoner, who was guarded by two Deputy Sheriffs, to another room, understanding that it was known where Jones was being held.

Dr. Harmon had the lights of the building turned on, every door secured, and the preacher seated himself in the dark at a window which gave him a view of the street.

Two Chevrolet automobiles were driven past the hospital late last night.

A number of masked white men appeared in the yard and one of them, with bandages around his hands and head, as though he was injured, stepped upon the porch and rang the bell.

The Rev. Dr. Harmon refused to admit him, and then the others of the party got in through a window in the sitting room, and started for the room in which they supposed Jones to be. Failing to find the man, they headed for the stairs, but found themselves confronted by the preacher with the pistol.

"I am a Methodist preacher," replied the doctor, "in charge of this hospital, and responsible for all in it. We have sick women and sick men in here. Now shoot if you dare. You may kill me, but you shall not come up those steps."

Meanwhile three of the men slipped up a back stairway, but encountered some nurses, who screamed. A Deputy Sheriff forced them back down the steps.

When the preacher ordered the leaders to retreat the men scattered. Later Sheriff Edmonson arrived with additional deputies, and the tension was relieved.

$850,000 in Real Estate and Money in Philadelphia Banks Taken Over by Alien Property Custodian

From Mrs. Bergdoll, in Charge Under Power of Attorney.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—All of the property in this city of Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, convicted draft evader and army deserter now in Germany, valued at about $850,000, was seized today by Col. Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian of the United States. It consists of real estate and money on deposit in four local banking institutions.

The property was held by Mrs. Emma C. Bergdoll, Grover's mother, under a power of attorney.

The seizure, Col. Miller announced, was by direction of the President, and under the authority of the trading with the enemy act. It is the first seizure since June, 1919.

Col. Miller announced that after Mrs. Bergdoll had testified before the Congressional Committee investigating the escape of Bergdoll from army service a year ago, that she held a power of attorney for Grover, Mrs. Bergdoll was served with a formal demand for a detailed report of all her son's holdings, and was notified that his property would be taken over by the Government.

Accompanied by Maj. Vincent A. Carroll, his personal attorney, Col. Miller, seized the "Bergdoll Castle" on the outskirts of this city, where Mrs. Bergdoll lives. This property was left to Grover by his father.

"Well, when do I have to move?" asked Mrs. Bergdoll, when served with the seizure notice.

Col. Miller and Maj. Carroll then proceeded to several banks and ordered the sequestration of all property standing in the name of Mrs. Bergdoll, which was to be ascertained.

President Schmidheiser of the Bergdoll Brewing Co. was served with a similar order tying up Grover's holdings in that company.

All mortgages to Grover and the tenants in his properties will be served likewise, Col. Miller announced.

It is expected the seizure will cut off all funds Grover may be receiving from the United States, and throw him upon his own resources in Germany.

Bergdoll an "Enemy" Under Trading With Enemy Act

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 27.—Grover Bergdoll, by reason of his today in Germany, is now held by the American Government to be an "enemy" within the meaning of the trading with the enemy act. This is explained in a statement by Thomas W. Miller, alien property custodian, which was made today at his office here. It follows:

M'AUILLIFFE AND CASEY IN CITY JAIL ON ORDER OF COURT

Judge Hartmann Orders Pillow Murder Defendants Turned Over by the Police to the Sheriff.

CONTEMPT HEARING IS SET FOR JUNE 10

Police Had Held Men as Protection to Witnesses Two of Whom They Say Have Been "Sent Away."

Thomas McAuliffe and Leo Casey, indicted for the murder of Ernie Pillow, were turned over to the Sheriff this afternoon after having been held by the police since their arrest May 15, and were placed in the city jail. They can hereafter be seen by their relatives and by lawyers, who have not had the privilege of seeing them while the police held them.

This action followed an order by Judge Hartmann, in a habeas corpus proceeding filed by Sigmund Bass, attorney for McAuliffe. At the request of J. H. Mackler, a lawyer associated with Bass, the ruling was extended to include Casey.

Contempt Hearing June 10. Judge Hartmann set June 10 at 2 p. m. as the time for hearing a charge of contempt of court, made by McAuliffe's lawyer against the Police Board and Chief of Police, for holding McAuliffe more than the 20 hours prescribed by law, and for failing to turn him over to the Sheriff, to be held in the jail, after the issuance of a bench warrant following an indictment. McAuliffe and Casey were indicted May 17.

At yesterday afternoon's hearing of the habeas corpus case, when this afternoon's action of the Court was indicated in advance, Chief of Police O'Brien testified that two witnesses against McAuliffe had been "sent away." He said the police would like to hold McAuliffe two days longer.

"We admit that the jail may be considered a better place than a police station," the Chief said. "But the jail is watched every minute, and our witnesses, if they went there to look at the prisoner, could not have the same protection that they have in going to some police station that is not watched."

"We have found that two of our witnesses have been sent away, and we are trying to locate them now." At the close of yesterday's hearing, McAuliffe arrived at the courtroom, in charge of Capt. Patrick Kirk of the Sould Street Police Station, who arrested him originally. The prisoner's sister, Mary McAuliffe, made a scene, crying out and striking at the detectives who stood between her and McAuliffe. He was taken away without having spoken with her or with his lawyer. He and Casey were in court today.

Cause of Unusual Procedure. The unusual procedure of the police has been due to a desire to protect the witnesses, and to keep their identity from becoming known for the present. The murder of Pillow, May 9, was an act of terrorism, its prime purpose being to keep Pillow from testifying against James Hogan on a robbery charge. The police desire to prevent the occurrence of murder, intimidation or any other form of interference with the witnesses who testified against McAuliffe and Casey before the grand jury.

CIVILIAN POLICE TO ENFORCE TRAFFIC LAWS IN DETROIT

1500 Members Begin Campaign of Assistance to Traffic Force, to Stop Violations.

DETROIT, May 27.—Fifteen hundred members of the civilian police today began assisting the traffic force of the Police Department in apprehending automobile drivers who violate traffic regulations. About 1000 of this number are to patrol streets in motor cars.

"So serious has the situation become that we are throwing our entire force into the battle against traffic law violations as we did against the crime wave recently," Special Deputy Commissioner Davis of the Civilian Police Department said. The civilian force will continue its work "until the evil has been stamped out," Commissioner Davis stated.

Names of Men From Two Illinois Draft Districts Who Are Listed as Deserters in Army Records

War Department Lists Those Who Were Drafted Whose Record Shows No Service Rendered by Them.

The names in the following list are those of men who were drafted for military service, but who failed to serve, according to the records of the War Department, as compiled to date. At the present time they are reported and classified by the department as "deserters from the military service of the United States."

The War Department has found in lists previously published the names of at least four men classed as "deserters" who had served honorably with the colors.

The War Department announcement says:

"Actual expenses not to exceed $50, to include reimbursement for the amount actually expended, but not to include allowance for services, will be paid to any civil officer or other citizen for the apprehension and delivery to military control of any one of them. If any one of them is apprehended, he should be delivered at, and reimbursement for the actual expenses incurred by the arresting officer should be claimed at, the nearest army post, camp or station."

The following lists are issued by Major-General George Bell Jr., commanding the Sixth Corps Area, with headquarters at Fort Sheridan, Ill.

DEADLOCK REPORTED OVER FUR EXCHANGE REORGANIZATION

St. Louis and New York Bankers Adjourn Conferences for Three or Four Days—Silent as to Plans.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. NEW YORK, May 27.—The second day of the conference between New York and St. Louis bankers and the representatives of the International Fur Exchange over reorganization plans reached no conclusion, and though everyone concerned is secretly in doubt, it appears that the conference has come to a deadlock.

The only announcement made at the office of the Guaranty Trust when the conference ended at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, was that no decision had been reached and that the conference had been adjourned indefinitely. This was later amended to read "for three or four days."

LIGHTNING KNOCKS HOLE IN EMPRESS THEATER WALL

Lightning at 5:10 p. m. yesterday struck a corner of the roof and a wall at the rear of the Empress Theater, 3818 Olive street, making a hole three feet wide and nine feet long in the wall. Falling bricks tore down electric light and telephone wires in an arcaaway.

The damage to the building was estimated at $100 and to wires $50. The theater was empty, a matinee audience having been dismissed a short time before the strike. The evening performance was given as usual.

JAPANESE REPORTED CAUGHT SEALING IN CANADIAN WATERS

By the Associated Press. PRINCE RUPERT, B. C., May 27.—A Japanese schooner was caught sealing in Canadian waters recently by the steamship Malaspina, which arrested the crew, captured 150 skins and then destroyed the craft, according to a report reaching here today. The report could not be confirmed officially.

The Malaspina is a Canadian Government fisheries patrol boat.

ST. LOUIS MAN SOLD HOUSE TO MRS. HEIL

Woman Accused of Robbing Chicago Homes Once Bought Apartment From Paul Schliafly.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. CHICAGO, May 27.—Mrs. Etta Black-Brown-Perry-Tell, under $15,000 bond to answer to the charge of robbing homes in which she obtained employment as a maid, was formerly the owner of an apartment house at Forty-third street and Grand boulevard, which she purchased from Paul Schliafly of St. Louis for $125,000.

Although her latest husband is wealthy and provides her with a beautiful home, two automobiles and a personal allowance of $300 a month, Mrs. Heil, who has had three previous husbands, forged references to obtain employment in fashionable North Shore homes for the purpose of robbing them. Her arrest resulted from the tracing of the license number of one of her automobiles, in which she had been driving, to a haul-away from one of her homes. Her stealings are alleged to have amounted to $30,000.

Mrs. Heil was divorced from her other husbands, Charles Black, a railroad engineer of Pittsburg, and George Brown and Cyril Perry of Chicago. It was while she was Perry's wife that she exhibited a trifling amount of unexplained origin and invested in the apartment house.

Schliafly Tells of Sales Transaction With the Then Mrs. Perry. Paul A. Schliafly is president of the Union Trust and Savings Bank, East St. Louis. He lives at 4442 Lindell boulevard with his father, August Schliafly. He gave out the following statement today:

"I bought from Judge Grosscup of Chicago an apartment house at Forty-third and Grand boulevard, about 1910 or 1912, for $105,000. I sold it to Mrs. Etta Brown for $125,000. Mrs. Brown, then Mrs. Perry, was put into bankruptcy by her Chicago creditors. Mr. Connett, my attorney, bought in the property at bankruptcy sale for the protection of the bondholders and it was afterwards sold to the W. K. Young Realty Co. of Chicago for $200,000."

W. C. Connett, vice president of the Liberty Central Trust Co. of St. Louis, who is Schliafly's brother-in-law, made the same statement concerning the apartment house transaction, adding the detail that he operated the property for two years between the time that it was bought in and the time that it was sold to the Young company. "When Mrs. Perry failed," he said, "I went up there and bought the property in and later sold it, and that was all there was to it."

NATIONAL ARMY OFFICERS WANT REGULAR DISABILITY PAY

Delegation of Wounded Appears Before Senate Committee; "Contract" in Draft Act Claimed.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 27.—A delegation of disabled men who served as national army officers in the world war appeared today before the Senate Military Committee in support of legislation to give disabled emergency officers the retirement pay and other privileges of regular army officers. They said several thousand former officers were entitled to legislative relief. Only those disabled in line of duty would be eligible under the bill before the committee.

Capt. Victor Heintz, representing the American Legion, and other witnesses said there was a "contract" in the selective service act to give the emergency officers retirement benefits equal to the regular staff.

Harry S. Monell, formerly of the New York National Guard, told the committee that the emergency officers, greatly outnumbering the regulars in the world war, had done the bulk of the work, and had "sacrificed more than the regular officers."

BUDER IDENTIFIES VERMONT AS PART OF HIS LOST LIQUOR

20 Quarts Recovered by Police Tuesday From Small Portion of Publisher's Stock.

G. A. Buder, president of the American Press Association, which publishes the St. Louis Times, last night identified 20 quarts of vermouth as being part of the liquor which was stolen from his home at 3137 Longfellow boulevard on the night of April 3. It is, however, but a small fraction of the amount taken.

The 20 quarts were taken by the police from an automobile which was overhauled Tuesday after a chase from Grand and Easton avenues to Compton and Bell avenues. The occupants were Henry Schaefer, 30, of 1224 Sidney street; Peter McCann, 26, 921 Geyer avenue, and Roy Damer, 21, La Salle Hotel. They have given no explanation of its presence in the car, the police say.

The liquor taken from the Buder home was valued by him at $5000, and included 45 cases of vermouth, 45 cases of champagne, and 30 bottles of rare wine. No trace of the remainder has been found.

General Strike in Norway.

ENGLISH ARCHDEACON'S CONVICTION UPHELD

High Ecclesiastical Court Rejects Appeal of Finding on Charge of Immorality.

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch. LONDON, April 30.—When the Judicial Council of the Privy Council, the highest ecclesiastical court in England, handed down its lengthy decision dismissing the appeal of the Rev. John Wakeford, 61 years old, Canon and Precentor of Lincoln Cathedral, Archdeacon of Stow and Vicar of Kirkstead, from the verdict of the Consistory Court of Lincoln finding him guilty of immoral conduct, there came to an end one of the strangest and most dramatic cases in the church history of England—a case upon which the attention of the British people was centered for weeks as the honorable Archdeacon battled vigorously but unsuccessfully to clear his name, which never before in all his career had been reproached.

Conviction carries with it expulsion from the ministry of the Church of England.

The specific charges against the Archdeacon were that in company with an unidentified woman he was a guest at the Bull Hotel, Peterborough, on March 14 and 15, and again on April 2, 1920. The Archdeacon admitted that he stayed at the hotel on the dates named, but denied that he was accompanied by a woman. The prosecution was unable to find the woman and, although establishing the fact of her presence to the satisfaction of the Lord Chancellor and his associates on the bench had to admit to the very last that the identity of the woman was a mystery.

Woman Described as Striking. The woman was described by hotel employees and other witnesses upon whom the prosecution relied to prove its case as between 25 and 30 years old and of striking appearance. It was said that she was strangely reticent while at the hotel, speaking to no one except her companion.

A determined effort by Sir Edward Carson, counsel for the Archdeacon, to show that the charges were a result of a conspiracy by enemies of the minister, was rejected by the Court as not established. The Archdeacon's wife, who is about his own age, assisted in his defense.

The high court which finally decided the case was composed of the Lord Chancellor, Lord Buckmaster and Lord Shaw, with the Bishops of London, Gloucester, Rochester and Ely as Assessors. Sir Edward Carson was the chief counsel for the accused archdeacon.

REQUISITION FROM ILLINOIS FOR ST. LOUISAN IS OPPOSED

Attorney for Man Accused in Sandoval Robbery Says He Was in Jail at Time.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, May 27.—Opposition to the granting of a requisition from Illinois for William Doering, charged with complicity in the robbery of the Bank of Sandoval, Ill., Nov. 20, 1919, was heard this afternoon by Todd Ormiston, secretary to the Governor.

Doering was represented by Sigmund Bass, who said Doering was a member of the tire firm of Bartlev, Doering & Powers, 3020 Locust street. He produced an affidavit by William Street, captain of police of Madison, Ill., stating that he arrested Doering in Madison the night of the Sandoval robbery, that Doering was in jail and thus could not have been in Sandoval.

When arrested in St. Louis March 1, Doering was held on suspicion of having been connected with several robberies, bought in the property at bankruptcy sale for the protection of the bondholders and it was afterwards sold to the W. K. Young Realty Co. of Chicago for $200,000."

W. C. Connett, vice president of the Liberty Central Trust Co. of St. Louis, who is Schliafly's brother-in-law, made the same statement concerning the apartment house transaction, adding the detail that he operated the property for two years between the time that it was bought in and the time that it was sold to the Young company. ## Voyage a Carnival of Baths and Shampoos for 1650 Immigrants

Captain Orders Ablution Program and Races to New York to Beat New Tariff Bill.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, May 27.—Life on the ocean for the 1650 steerage passengers on the Fabre Liner Providence, in from Marseilles and Naples, was an 11-day festival of compulsory bathing, hair-cutting and disinfecting in a race to port against enactment of the emergency tariff bill.

Capt. Marcantetti heard by wireless that the tariff bill, which affected many articles in his cargo, might become a law before he landed. Confronted with a possible heavy increase in customs duties and delay at quarantine because of stringent health regulations, the captain ordered quick speed ahead, and a severe ablution program for the emigrants on board.

The race was won for the tariff bill was not yet signed by the President.

Conviction carries with it expulsion from the ministry of the Church of England.

The specific charges against the Archdeacon were that in company with an unidentified woman he was a guest at the Bull Hotel, Peterborough, on March 14 and 15, and again on April 2, 1920. The Archdeacon admitted that he stayed at the hotel on the dates named, but denied that he was accompanied by a woman. The high court which finally decided the case was composed of the Lord Chancellor, Lord Buckmaster and Lord Shaw, with the Bishops of London, Gloucester, Rochester and Ely as Assessors. Sir Edward Carson was the chief counsel for the accused archdeacon.

The lengthy decision handed down by the Court concluded as follows: "Their Lordships have applied their minds to this case with great care and with much solicitude. But the conclusions which they have reached are to them inevitable. Reluctant as they were to believe such a charge against a man in the position and with the history of the appellant, they scanned every circumstance and every argument which could possibly be urged in his favor. They have reached the conclusion that the judgment of the Consistory Court must be upheld. It is a source of satisfaction to them to find that the views which they entertain are shared by the Right Reverend Prelates who have been good enough to give them their assistance upon this occasion."

TWO MEN FINED $500
EACH ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Prisoners, Arrested After Fight in Illinois, Refuse to Tell Anything About Themselves.

Two men who refuse to tell anything about themselves and who, Assistant United States District Attorney Baird of East St. Louis alleges, are members of a gang of bootleggers engaged in transporting liquor from Canada to the interior of the United States, were fined $500 and costs each yesterday by Judge English in the Federal Court in East St. Louis.

They are unable to pay their fines. Since their arrest several weeks ago, Federal officials say, the men have had no visitors and efforts to ascertain who are their associates have been without success. The men gave their names as Charles Jenkins and Cal Morgan, when arrested at Robinson, Ill., with an automobile containing a large amount of liquor, when driving from Terre Haute, Ind.

They pleaded guilty to a charge of having and transporting liquor. In addressing the Court, Assistant District Attorney Baird said: "We have been unable to find out anything about Morgan, but we believe Jenkins lives in Terre Haute, a notorious station on the 'underground railway' line operating between the border and the interior. They were arrested after a gun fight in which Morgan was wounded. Another man by the name of Eggerman, who, I understand, owned the automobile, got away. On the day they were caught by a constable, a large crowd gathered, and the men invited the populace to help themselves, which they did, and as a consequence we obtained but a small part of the liquor they were transporting."

The men said they had hired an attorney for $50 to represent them, but the attorney failed to appear in their behalf.

Total of $80 Taken in Three Holdups—Druggist Misses $5 After Gypsies' Visit.

Two men entered a Kroger grocery at 2900 Bailey avenue at 3 p. m. yesterday and one of them asked for a can of beans. William F. Ehler, the manager, turned to get the beans. When he again faced the two customers they were pointing revolvers at him. At their suggestion he elevated his hands. They took $10 from the cash register and departed without the beans.

This was the third Kroger store robbed during the day. At 11 a. m. three men took $39.31 from Mack J. Dean, manager of the store at 4704 Nebraska avenue. At 11:30 three men, probably the same three, made Earl Payne, manager of the store at 1327 North Newstead avenue, lie down while they took between $30 and $40 from the register.

Gypsy Woman Steals $5 in Drug Store Three gypsy women visited Henry Molles' drug store at 300 South Jefferson avenue at 3 p. m. and while two tried to wheedle Molles and his clerk, Joseph Clark, into having their fortunes told the third wandered around. After they departed Molles found that $5 was missing from the cash register.

While something was going on last night at the Wednes Day Club, Taylor avenue and Westminster place, somebody slipped into the checkroom and went through the pockets of the coats hanging there. The police report, disdaining prefixes, says that Ellen Barby, 5928 Maple avenue, lost a $15 bar pin and 70 cents; Evelyn Cox, 5911 Kingsbury place, lost $10; and Helen Shupp, 5063 Raymond avenue, lost 75 cents.

While they were moving the piano yesterday afternoon at Sam Levin's apartment, 229 Harlan court, 5455 Delmar boulevard, a door was left open and somebody came in and picked up Mrs. Levin's purse, containing $30, and carried it away. The home of Mrs. Oscar Brown, 4498 Forest Park boulevard, was entered last night and $225 worth of jewelry taken. From the home of George Hatch, 4304 Labadie avenue, clothing worth $200 was taken.

YOUTH CHARGED WITH LIQUOR AND CIGAR THEFT DISCHARGED

Judge Landwehr Rules Evidence Regarding Robbery of Drug Store Is Insufficient.

Charles F. O'Connor, 22 years old, of 1452 Webster avenue, charged with burglary in the second degree and larceny, was discharged on instructions from Judge Landwehr in the criminal court yesterday at the conclusion of the State's case on the ground of insufficient evidence.

O'Connor was charged with stealing alcohol, wine, cigars and cigarettes from Thomas Rosenthal's drug store at 1400 North Grand avenue Jan. 12. Rosenthal testified that he saw O'Connor in the cellar the day before. The stolen goods were found in a closet across the corridor from the rooms occupied by O'Connor, but it was not shown that he was the only person who had access to the closet.

LA PIERRE RELEASED FROM BOND AND FREED OF PERJURY CHARGE

Investigation Shows Lyre-Ola Co. Head Committed No Offense and Was Not Indicted.

Arthur F. La Pierre, president of the Lyre-Ola Manufacturing Co., was released yesterday from his $1500 bond under the warrant charging him with perjury in applying for passports.

He was alleged to have made affidavit that he was born in this country whereas he had previously, in applying for naturalization, made affidavit that he was born in Italy.

Investigation, however, showed that he had merely declared that he was born in this country "to the best of his knowledge and belief" and had attached to his application an explanation that his parents had told him he was born in Brooklyn, but he was unable to find a record of his birth there and to remove doubt had applied for naturalization. It appeared further, in view of advice from the Department of Justice, that he would not have committed any offense against the Government even if he had made false statements in his application for passports, because passports are not required and applying for them is optional. La Pierre disappeared while on bond on the perjury charge after bankruptcy proceedings had been brought against the Lyre-Ola company and relatives stated that he had gone back to Italy.

When a partial report was made by the Federal grand jury recently it was stated that an indictment had been returned against La Pierre, but this was a mistake. The charge was dismissed on motion of District Attorney Carroll yesterday after the grand jury had refused to indict him.

AUTO MECHANIC HURT IN BLAST
Edward Doyle, 38 years old, of 4021 Peck street, a mechanic, was severely injured at 3 p. m. yesterday, when a gas vulcanizing machine, at which he was working in the plant of the Benton Motor Service Co., 1900 St. Louis avenue, exploded.

Several ribs on his right side were fractured, his right arm was broken and he was cut on the chest. He was taken to the city hospital. The plant was damaged about $1500, several windows and show-cases being broken and a section of the ceiling blown out. Several other persons were in the building at the time, but they were not hurt.

Vice President of Simmons Hardware Co. Says High Prices for Food Are Not Going to Farmer.

Archer W. Douglas, vice president of the Simmons Hardware Co., speaking before the Kiwanis Club at luncheon in the American Annex Hotel yesterday, commented on the difference between the price of farm products and the price paid by consumers of food.

"Someone is getting his," Douglas remarked. "It is not the farmer or the consumer. Some factor, in between, is still profiteering. This wide gap must be closed."

Douglas spoke of the serious effect of the failure of the Southern cotton market. "Conditions elsewhere, while not so aggravated," he said, "show that fully one-half of the buyers essential to prosperity have been withdrawn from the market." He said the revival of foreign trade, and a rise in agricultural prices, must be precedent to business recovery.

SPOTS ON BONES MAKE CHINESE CONFESS

Chinese Theory Only Boiling of Remains of Murder Victim Will Give Proof Wins Case.

By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, April 10.—(Delayed.)—How justice is administered in a Chinese criminal court was illustrated in an interesting fashion at the trial of a locally celebrated murder case that was held the last week in March in Nantao, the native settlement which forms a large part of the city of Shanghai.

For three days preceding the trial, curious thousands, hedged off by stout bamboo rails, watched the progress of a postmortem at which east and west clashed. The post-mortem was performed by Chinese physicians, several trained in American and other occidental schools and others who had received their medical education in China. It was a case of suspected poisoning, and while the western-trained physicians insisted that the stomach and intestines with their contents should be sent to a laboratory for analysis, the purely Chinese doctors clung to an ancient belief and declared that the question at issue could be proved by boiling the bones of the deceased in a certain manner. The Chinese doctors carried their point.

Thousands of Spectators.
Chang Shen Sung, the accused, was arrested in the International Settlement. It was charged that 13 months ago at the little Chinese river village of Pootung, 14 miles down the Whangpoo from Shanghai, he had poisoned his father, Chang Ka-yung, a wealthy rice merchant. On application of the Chinese authorities of Nantao the prisoner was turned over to the Chinese police and a trial was held the next day. The hearing took place in an open lot, with the Court sitting beneath a mat shed, while close-packed thousands, held back by soldiers and a stout bamboo stockade, looked on avidly through the hearing. In a prominent place in front of the Court a huge iron kettle simmered over an open fire, in which had been placed the bones of the alleged victim as the Chinese doctors had ordered.

Denial by Prisoner.
The hearing was lengthy and the Court took no less than three recesses through the day. The procedure consisted almost wholly of questioning the accused and urging him to confess that he committed the crime. This questioning was done by the Court, police officials and two Chinese procurators in turn and through the whole bombardment of interrogation the youth in manacles held firmly to a denial of his guilt.

The Chinese doctors had declared that if the deceased had died from poisoning this would be made evident by the presence of discolorations on the bones after the boiling process. Again and again this was borne in upon the prisoner, who was told that if he were guilty the bones when exposed would surely prove it.

It was when the Court sat for the fourth time that the lid was removed from the kettle and the grisly contents were placed on a long table. Numerous dark spots were seen on many of the bony parts. One of the procurators, the agitated prisoner, "Did you pointing to these marks, turned to poison your father?" he thundered. The prisoner shrank back. "I did it. I poisoned him," he confessed.

At Death's Door
"Ten years of stomach trouble reduced me to a living skeleton. I had attacks of pain that doubled me up like a jack-knife and I was as yellow as a gold-plate. No medical aid or doctors helped me and was really at death's door. A lodge brother advised me to try 'May's Wonderful Remedy' and I found it to be the only medicine to touch my case." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. ## F. R. JACKES, BANKER, DIES SUDDENLY AT 62

President of Broadway Savings Trust Co. Helped Suppress Rebellion in Canada.

Franklin R. Jackes, 62 years old, president of the Broadway Savings Trust Co. and president of the Jackes-Evans Manufacturing Co., died at 7 o'clock this morning at his home, 10 Thornby place, following a sudden illness, which is believed to have been a paralytic stroke.

He is survived by his wife, two sons and four daughters.

He was a native of Toronto, and lived in Ontario and in the western provinces of Canada until the middle 80's when he went to Milwaukee. He came to St. Louis in 1889.

While he was a resident of the Canadian Northwest, Jackes served, in 1885, under Gen. Middleton in putting down the so-called Riel rebellion in the Saskatchewan region. This uprising was headed by Louis Riel, who was of mixed Indian and French-Canadian descent. A dispute between French half-breeds and the Canadian Government over land grants was the cause of the uprising, and Riel for a time headed a "provincial government." Gen. Middleton's command attacked and overcame the rebels at Batoche, and Jackes was wounded in this battle. Riel was captured, and later was hanged for treason.

In 1890 he was one of the incorporators of the manufacturing firm which he afterward headed, making sheet metal goods. He became secretary and treasurer, and later president, of this concern.

THREE REPORT CASHING BOGUS CHECKS FOR GIRL WHO ESCAPED

Additional Operations of Marian Walker, Who Eluded Officers in Arcade Lobby, Revealed.

Three more persons yesterday reported they had cashed worthless checks for Miss Marian Walker, whose escape after her arrest Wednesday afternoon caused the suspension of two special policemen of the Magnolia avenue district, who went with her to the lobby of the Arcade Building to trap a man who, she said, had induced her to pass bad checks.

Miss Elsie Herman, a milliner at 4403 Olive street, reported that about a week ago the young woman bought a hat from her for $16.75, paying for it with a $20 check and receiving change.

E. M. Pirner, a druggist at Delmar boulevard and Taylor avenue, said Miss Walker made a small purchase from him and received change on a $15 check.

Richard K. Rawlings, a teller at the Savings Trust Co., 4935 Delmar boulevard, cashed a $15 check for her several days ago. The check, he said, was O. K'd by Otto L. Rauck, an accountant for the trust company. Rauck said he approved the check because he had a slight acquaintance with Miss Walker and because the check was for so small an amount that he did not suspect it was fraudulent.

WOMAN PAROLED ON PETITION OF COUNTY BANKS SHE DEFAUDED

Mrs. Mary Long, 30 years old, formerly of Maplewood, who has been in jail in Clayton since April 2, when she was arrested in Kirkwood for a fraudulent check transaction, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge McElhinney at Clayton yesterday on her plea of

TO REMOVE SKIN BLEMISHES

Use Black and White Beauty Bleach

Skin blemishes, such as tan, sun and wind freckles, liver spots, dark, sallow, mottled blotches mar the complexion to the extent that one is apt to try a way of removing them that may result disastrously.

A safe, sure way to remove your skin blemishes is by the use of Black and White Beauty Bleach and Black and White Soap.

Black and White Beauty Bleach softens the skin—makes it clear, white and beautiful—faded, and removes any embarrassing skin blemishes. Black and White Beauty Bleach is a delightfully perfumed preparation and when applied it forms an invisible coating on the skin.

guilty to defrauding the West End Bank of University City of $75 and then paroled.

On Jan. 21 she deposited a check for $75 at the West End Bank, which, when presented at the First National Bank in St. Louis later, was found to be signed with a fictitious name.

The next day she drew out the money. Seven other banks in St. Louis County, which alleged they had been defrauded similarly, petitioned for her parole, and the parole board paroled the woman to her husband, Edward Long, of 4085 West Pine boulevard.

Who is Swift & Company?

Swift & Company is not a one man or one family affair. It is a company owned by more than 40,000 people scattered over the face of the globe—forty thousand shareholders with voting powers and a share in the risks and profits of the business.

Most of the forty thousand live here in the United States. But some of them live in France, some in England, others in the Philippines, Hawaii, Alaska.

13,000 of them are women.

Nearly 14,000 of them are employees.

The average individual holdings are small—about 37 shares apiece.

No one person or family owns a majority of the stock.

In fact, it would take 900 of the largest shareholders pooled together to vote 51 percent of the stock!

These shareholders are the men and women whose money, in the form of capital, makes Swift & Company possible.

They are jealous of the character and reputation of their organization, proud of what it is doing, proud to have a part in supplying to the world such products as Swift's Premium Ham and Bacon, Brookfield Sausage, Silverleaf Brand Pure Lard, Wool Soap, Swift & Company's fresh meats, etc.

The executives of Swift & Company maintain the high standards of these products as an imperative duty not only to the 40,000 shareholders, but to the public.

GIESELER IS OUT TO STAY, M'KELVEY TELLS PETITIONERS

"Republican Party Can Take Care of Itself." He Says to Those Urging Deputy's Reinstatement.

Director of Public Safety McKelvey announced late yesterday afternoon, after 20 residents of the Twenty-third Ward called on Mayor Kiel with a petition signed by 3000 persons, asking that Edward J. Gieseler, Deputy Building Commissioner, be retained in his position, that Gieseler had been discharged and would not be re-employed.

Gieseler, who resides in the Twenty-third Ward, McKelvey's home, was a candidate in the spring primary for nomination for alderman, against Clinton E. Udell, the choice of McKelvey and the administration. Udell won, and soon after McKelvey was reappointed by Mayor Kiel, McKelvey announced that Gieseler had been given a two-week vacation with notice that he was discharged at the end of the vacation.

The delegation which called on the Mayor said Gieseler was competent, and that in addition he should be retained "for the good of the Republican party." The Mayor refused to interfere, McKelvey said.

"As long as I am Director of Public Safety, Gieseler will not be employed in this office. The Republican party can take care of itself, but Gieseler will not be reinstated."

G. F. HAID TO BECOME FIRST ASSOCIATE COUNSELOR AUG. 1

City Counselor Caulfield yesterday announced the appointment of George F. Haid of 6177 Washington boulevard as first Associate City Counselor. The position pays $5000 a year. Haid, who is 43 years old and is married, has for a number of years been connected with the law firm of Jones, Hocker, Sullivan and Angert, with offices in the Third National Bank Building. He is a graduate of the St. Louis Law School, now known as Washington University.

Caulfield said the appointment was a personal one and was not made for political reasons nor upon the suggestion of any group of politicians or interests. Haid, he said, had the reputation of being an exceptionally good brief writer as well as having demonstrated special efficiency in Federal procedure. Haid was for several years chief deputy clerk of the Federal Court of Appeals.

His appointment will take effect Aug. 1. He will succeed Henry A. Hamilton, who has been appointed Circuit Judge by Gov. Hyde, effective June 19. Haid is a Republican.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Reduce Everybody.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In reading the article by "Railway Auditor" in the Post-Dispatch I wondered if he would like to come under the operation of the decision of the Labor Board and have his salary cut. His salary and the salaries of all the officers are listed as "labor" when it comes to figuring out the rate per cent that labor pays to the total amount paid out as expenses by the railroads, but when it comes to reducing "labor" he and others that are paid princely amounts and could well afford to work for less, never once suggest that the cut be made horizontally and affect all connected with the road.

Since the roads were turned back to private ownership each one of them have appointed high-salaried soliciting agents in nearly every city in the United States, with an expensive office outfit, many of these being hundreds of miles from the road from which they draw their salaries. This is also charged up as "labor." This expense was not there under Federal control and having been put on during a depression, it is hurting some. Why do they not reduce there, too? Being one of "labor" and drawing small pay, I will say that I would be perfectly willing to suffer a rate per cent cut in pay that would apply from the president down, embracing everybody on the payroll.

If the officers of the roads are sincere in their desire to practice economy and do it by cutting salaries, they will be willing to make the reduction horizontal, commencing with the president and making each man suffer the same rate per cent reduction in his pay. The big part that could be saved for the companies is in the huge salaries of officials and when they are included in the reduction it would not make it so hard on us little ones, but to take all the deficit from us is nothing short of outrageous.

Another view. Is there any legitimate reason why the stockholders and the bondholders should be so sacred that they cannot take a reduction of their earnings during a depression, the same as the employee who is only trying to live comfortably?

Let "Railway Auditor" do some of his statistical stunts on the above lines.
RAILWAY EMPLOYEE.

A Calamity.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Most people when they retrench cut off their charities first. Our "City Fathers" seem to be following a like method by threatening to reduce two of their public playgrounds and swimming pools—some of these "Fairground Pool."

Only those who know what these mean to a city's moral and physical health know what a calamity that would be. Surely there are many "less disastrous" ways of municipal economy.

We hope the Father will ponder on it.
AGNES M. SCHABERG.

Tower Grove Line.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am employed downtown and use the Tower Grove car line. Ever since these cars have been looking back at Pine street it has taken me 10 or 15 minutes longer to get to my work. I now either have to walk several blocks to get to work in the morning, and in the evening, unless I transfer to a Broadway or Seventh street car. These cars are always crowded.

I do hope something will be done to bring these cars back to where they used to run.
A WORKING GIRL.

The Police Board.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I have been reading with much interest the work of the present Police Board. Sometimes I think it is the work of a child's brain, instead of men, who are supposed to have the city interests at heart, instead of their own axes to grind. It is with utter disgust that I read of the experience of Sgt. Eilers.

Here is a man who, liked by all who know him, is transferred to an outlying district, to walk a beat just because he was well liked and some of his friends thought so much of him that they mentioned it to the board member.

He had nothing at all to do with their action, but must suffer for it anyway. That is the work of a board that stands for justice!

There is no doubt that some of their actions have merit, but they are spotting the good part with their narrow-minded work. It did not take them long to decide on the reinstatement of the members of the department let out by the previous board, did it? And of course we must concede that the old board were not all wrong, either.

JAMES C. JACKSON.

Back on Old Routes.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I was glad to read in your paper that there was a movement on foot to have the Tower Grove and Fourth street cars go back to their old loops near Union Market.

It is certainly a hardship for anyone to go shopping in the downtown district now and have to transfer two or three times or carry their bundles seven or eight blocks to get a car to take them home.

I for one hope the United Railways will reconsider this matter and put these cars back on their old tracks at once. I know everyone in our neighborhood feels the same as I do about this.

MRS. OSCAR A. FRIES.

ADVICE OF OPPOSING COUNSEL.

Two lawyers, one at Jefferson City, the other at New York, discussed a question of great public interest Wednesday. They appeared as opposing counsel, so to speak. Speaking at Jefferson City, as the attorney of a cement company, Mr. Theo Rassieur of St. Louis utilized an amiable sentiment of "hands off of business" recently voiced by President Harding. With that as a text, Mr. Rassieur urged upon Attorney-General Barrett the necessity of carefully considering the testimony developed at the present probe into conditions in the building material business "before deciding to institute suits against industries under inquiry."

The other lawyer was Mr. Samuel Untermyer of New York, chief counsel for the Lockwood Legislative Committee. Ten individuals and nine corporations, members of a dealers' association in masons' building materials, having pleaded guilty to illegal combination and been fined in an amount totaling $25,150, Mr. Untermyer remarked:

"I have not been able to discover a single article that enters into building construction that is not the subject of combination. . . . The activities of those that are unlawful should receive the same kind of attention that the secret service gives to counter-fetters or that the expert safe-crackers receive at the hands of the police."

Mr. Untermyer's remedy for such sinister conspiracies against the public is "legislation in the form of drastic Federal and state supervision and control of trade associations." He admitted, however, that the plan for such supervision and control has not yet been perfected and until it is he warned public authorities everywhere—which includes those at Jefferson City—to keep a close watch on the efforts of the investigation and the practices of these associations. . . .

The Attorney-General of Missouri will, of course, determine, on his own judgment, whether the evidence developed at Jefferson City justifies prosecution. But as a public servant Mr. Barrett, we should think, might find surer guidance in Mr. Untermyer's advice than in the counsel of a possible defendant's attorney.

THE LESSON OF HOYLAK.

Ouimet, Evans, Jones—one by one the roses fall. And when Wright succumbed to the superior prowess of a chap named Darwin the last thread was ripped out of the skein of hope leaving but the drab fabric of defeat. What our Ambassador Harvey may have said when the news reached him the cables forbear to repeat. We shall not be surprised to hear, however, that he broke out with a fierce "tut, tut," or some equally violent expletive.

So, the British amateur golf championship will remain in Britain. The invaders have been repulsed. The cognoscenti doubtless will be able to account for the result satisfactorily. But for those of us who never will know and never will understand the game of golf, no labored explanation is necessary. There is one thing, though, which we, the illiterate of the sport, do know, and that is that nothing ever happens in golf according to form. The favorite is always beaten. The rare exceptions only prove the rule. The perverse genius of the game has been conclusively demonstrated at Hoylake, where the stellar performers were promptly obliterated while comparative obscurities remained to carry on.

The inference, of course, is obvious. Between the great and the near-great of golf there is only a slight margin. A bit of luck, reinforced, to be sure, by pluck, and the differential is wiped out.

The same thing is probably as true of the game of life generally as it is of the ancient Scotch game. Championships are the predestined property of those with the nerve and determination to go after them, unawed by reputation or tradition.

Reporter Harvey may hereafter find it advisable to submit his copy to Editor Harding.

HAYS HITS STRAIGHT.

Postmaster-General Hays has taken advantage of an inviting opportunity to reverse an obnoxious ruling of his predecessor. The Burleson order to exclude certain publications from second-class mailing privileges for cause having to do with their attitude toward the Government, while accepting them as third-class at a higher rate of postage, is indefensible on any grounds. If, as Hays remarks, the Liberator, whose application was granted with the ruling, is publishing mailable matter it is entitled under the law to the second-class privilege in the mails. If not, then there can be no reason for admitting it under any other classification.

The Supreme Court on March 7 upheld the right of the Postal Department to bar a publication from the second-class mailing privilege if it deemed that articles published in it were in violation of the espionage act. Justices Brandeis and Holmes dissented, the former giving as his reason that, while any issue of a publication violating the law could be barred, there is no power existent to exclude a publication indefinitely.

Mr. Hays will establish even more firmly the public confidence in his intention to take a liberal and American attitude toward the press if, as indicated, he neglects to utilize the power of censorship vested in the office, wrongly, we believe, by the Supreme Court's ruling.

The inevitable consequence of a policy of suppression.

EDITORIAL SPARKS.

A Japanese with a wife and nine children has entered Cornell as a freshman. He has had his hazing.—Bismarck Tribune.

Pennsylvania is by far the richest State in the Union, else she couldn't have so much left after being robbed by the Republican politicians for 50 years as she has been.—Houston Post.

John Daniel, the foreign-born gorilla who died recently, must have been a pretty good citizen. Though the climate was against him he did not advocate the overthrow of the Government.—Toledo Blade.

"Carnations are all right for Mother's Day," observed the street car philosopher, "but when the old man's turn comes it were better to say it with dandelions."—Buffalo Express.

A test question which girls with a 12-years-old mentality are supposed to be able to answer at the Bedford (N. Y.), reformatory for women is "What is the difference between a President and a King?" Well, what is the difference?—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Hicksite Quakers in convention in Philadelphia admit women to their councils on even terms, and abolish the specific ban on "music, card-playing and dancing." Surely, the world is moving toward liberalism, though not without some backward sporadicisms.—Brooklyn Eagle.

sion and persecution in the Postal Department is to put thunder into the mouths of those who charge the Government with a denial of popular liberties. Unquestionably the Burleson discrimination which merely raised the price of saying things displeasing to the Government was a persecution.

FAIR DEAL FOR THE RIVER.

Secretary of War Weeks has reassured a delegation from the valley states that called on him to advise against prematurely discontinuing the Government's operation of the Mississippi barge line. Frankly stating that he did not believe the operation of a river transportation service was a proper function of government, he realized that the barge line could not prudently or fairly be disposed of to private interests until it had been fully tested. He repeated a promise already informally given to take no action of that kind until the new equipment now building has been thoroughly tried.

If, upon the assumption of his office, the Secretary of War was neutral as regards river transportation, it may fairly be presumed that that attitude is now inclining towards friendliness. That presumption is based on the Secretary's well-known business capacity. The more he looks into river transportation, as he is bound to do, the more impressed he will be with its possibilities. That he will presently come to realize the necessity of developing our waterways as a matter of national welfare cannot be doubted.

Another point of vital importance, which, we believe, will sooner or later command Mr. Weeks' ardent support, was brought out by the delegation, namely, adequate protection for the rivers against unfair competition. The Esch-Cummins law is defective in this respect. The Government, through proper legislation, must see to it that the railroads shall not again strangle the rivers. It may be that the railroads have no such malevolent design, but the Government, in any event, should lead them out of temptation by making river-stifling rates illegal. Such assurance is a consideration which private investors may justly demand before putting their money into the barge line.

"Disastrous" and "ruinous" are favorite expressions at the building materials inquiry. Some time it might occur to people without homes to include these words in their vocabulary.

NEW EXTRADITABLE OFFENSES.

The United States has set a precedent significant of the times in a supplementary extradition treaty just concluded with Great Britain on behalf of Canada, which adds to the extraditable offenses "willful" desertion or non-support of a minor dependent." The treaty was negotiated in the closing days of the Wilson administration and has just received the advice and consent of the Senate.

The first treaty of extradition ever entered into by the United States with another country was concluded with Great Britain in 1794, and it stipulated but two crimes, murder and forgery, as extraditable. In 1842 a new treaty was entered into expanding the number of extraditable offenses to seven, by adding assault with intent to murder, piracy, arson, robbery and utterance of forged paper. The need for meeting the new social problems arising in our growing country is more plainly indicated in the supplementary convention of 1889, which added a score of additional offenses, including manslaughter, counterfeiting, embezzlement, larceny, fraud by bailer, perjury, rape, abduction, kidnapping, burglary, revolt at sea and crimes against the laws for suppressing the slave trade.

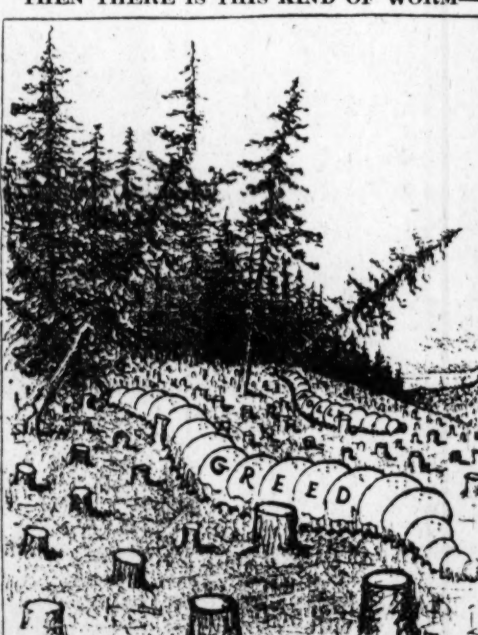

More than any other country the United States deserves the credit for having established in the practice of nations the principle that no fugitive political offender shall be surrendered under extradition. This principle reflects our early zeal in behalf of the spread of democratic institutions and our sympathy with those courageous enough to seek the overthrow of oppressive governments. All such, even the assassins of rulers, could find a safe asylum with us. After the assassination of President McKinley, however, we acquiesced in an exception in such cases.

The inclusion of desertion and non-support among treaty offenses is noteworthy as perhaps the first extradition treaty to embrace these subjects. At common law it is not a criminal offense to abandon a wife or dependents, but it has been made a crime by statute in England and in some, but not all, of the states of our Union under certain circumstances. Thus abandonment of a wife is not an offense if the wife has been guilty of infidelity or has treated the husband with extreme cruelty. In those states where desertion is made a crime the laws are not uniform. Thus, in Missouri, for example, two things must concur to constitute the offense, a desertion and non-support, but it is a sufficient defense to a prosecution if there has been a separation by mutual consent.

The editor of a Paris paper, who says that "America's decisive effort won the war," possibly does not know that there's only a thin little body of water between him and a dragon named George Harvey.

For liquidating the national debt, for providing Europe with necessary credits and reviving the commerce of the world, we still have Dempsey and Carpenter.

FREE VERSE.

THE closing exercises in the Missouri School of Journalism at Columbia this week are held in the Jay H. Neff Memorial Hall.

This is the first building anyone has ever given our State University.

We have a mighty big State, but we have done very little for it.

Anyway, there is this hall.

Isn't the biggest building on the campus, but after I tell you the story about it you will be able to see it hundreds of miles.

It will just keep on going up and up.

Very well.

There was a Kansas City newspaper man named Jay H. Neff.

His son, Ward, went to the School of Journalism down at Columbia.

The father died, and the family thought of building a mausoleum in one of the Kansas City cemeteries.

You know what those are.

The Chinese have been so crazy about them for thousands of years that they have China all cluttered up with them.

That is what is the matter with China. She has tombs and ancestors on the brain. That has made a graveyard of China.

You know which way graveyards are going.

But to get back to the story:

The young man had been a pupil in the School of Journalism.

He had a half-baked idea, such as young men sometimes have, that the family could do better by the memory of his father than to build a mausoleum.

It struck the young man that this would be putting his father in a class with Cheops, whereas his father would have preferred to be classed with the benefactors of humanity.

He was getting on pretty high ground there, don't you think?

We think so.

At any rate, he went down to Columbia to see Dean Walter Williams, the man who has made the Missouri School of Journalism famous.

You can imagine how enthusiastic a man like the Dean is about the different varieties of sarcophagi!

So when the young man went home the Dean had his money, from which we all have the Jay H. Neff Memorial Hall.

Encouraging, isn't it?

Makes it look as if Missouri had emerged from the mound-building age.

One can almost imagine other people about to throw their money away on graveyards doing something useful with it.

We are the thirty-fourth State in education.

In tombs we are probably running well up front.

We have enough marble in them to build a State university as big as they have in Wisconsin, and not one block of it is doing a thing for Missouri.

Now you can see the Jay H. Neff Memorial Hall.

We knew you could.

You don't see anybody else giving buildings to our State University.

You will, though, when more people read this.

Dickie's father was shocked to see his son kick his little playmate.

"Why did you kick John?" he asked, severely.

"I am tired of playing with him. I want him to go home."

"Then why didn't you ask him to go home?"

"Oh—it was Dickie's turn to be shocked—"

"Why, daddy, that wouldn't be polite!"—Harper's.

Mr. Frank A. Rand, who has seen some townships, thinks we are not badly off for one down here on the Mississippi River; which is precisely what a great many of us are quite sure is the case. The river is going to cause a stir before we are all very much older, and when that stir begins we are going to have trouble with places which will try to trade us their larger population for our more advantageous location. Economic considerations which we have not been very familiar are going to be of great assistance to St. Louis, and it doesn't take much of a prophet to see it. Our Mr. Laclede has suffered by comparison with the founders of some other American cities, as eventualists always suffer by hasty comparisons. Those people need time to justify them, and of course they get it. Time is one of our indestructible assets. It isn't something they can give away at the City Hall, or that some predatory interest can make off with at night. Some day, when your faith in the city is weak, go down to the Eads Bridge and look at the river. It induces thought—the thought Mr. Rand has expressed. The river goes to the sea. We have something—and not only we, but people outside of St. Louis are finding it out.

What could more frankly express the spirit of our time than the lamentation of the country correspondent to the Harrisonville (Mo.) Republican: "We are sorry to say there was a dance in this community Saturday night." There speaks sorrow, but not too complainingly, our dissolving tolerance of joy. Possibly you do not think much of this correspondent as a purveyor of news. If so, let us reassure you. Nothing else is at this time news to such an extent as that we should be sorry there was a dance on Saturday night. The best news is that which most faithfully reflects our own time. Was there anything from Washington on yesterday so true to our own time as that little paragraph from a country correspondent? If there was we missed it.

Dean Walter Williams of the Missouri School of Journalism told this story at dinner of the Round Table Club: A colored man in Columbia went into a grocery after cheese. The purchase was small; and the grocer, none too enthusiastic about the deal, made only a couple of fancy passes at the cheese, cutting two very thin slices. The colored man watched him quietly, and as the cheese was being wrapped up, said: "Boss, yuh mighty neah missed that wheese, didn't yuh?" Our Jamie Reed, whom we are always quick to applaud when he gives us a chance, made a point the other day to set the people who do not want to trade with Russia scurrying to their hiding places. He asked if anyone cared to say that the soviet Government, with which we refuse to trade, is any worse than the Czar's Government, with which we were always glad to do business. There was not a head above ground on the other side for a bit.

Things move pretty fast nowadays, and like as not our sign hunter No. 41144 did not know that whereas we formerly had to go to a shoemaker to have rubber heels put on our shoes we are able now to get them equipped in this way from the factory. Therefore the sign . . . Buy St. Louis Made Shoes . . . Factory Equipped With . . . Essex Rubber Heels . . . which looked to our sign hunter as if we were beginning to equip factories with this noiseless method of getting about, didn't really indicate that; but rather an improvement in the process of getting us rubber-heeled. We hope to see him tip-toe out of it without having to surrender his license, for he has a long and brilliant record.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

ONE-WAY TRADE.

From the New York World.
MINISTERS and attaches of a score of foreign Governments appeared the other day before the annual convention of the Association of Manufacturers to state their case in opposition to a high tariff on imports into the United States. "America needs foreign markets," said Ambassador Jusserand, their spokesman, "and foreign markets need America. Can any reasonable person expect foreign markets to come to America when this country raises a wall to keep them out? France has little gold left and must pay for what she buys in goods. The rest of the world is in the same condition. Can America foster foreign markets when she erects a tariff wall to exclude their only way of paying? These are elemental facts explained in simple language. It is obvious to the average intelligence that if the United States desires to export, it will have to take imports in return, for there is not gold enough in Europe to render cash transactions feasible. The rates of exchange already make trade difficult; the proposed tariff will make trade more difficult and, by preventing adjustment, will hold the rates of exchange where they are. In so far as the United States sees fit to fix high import duties it withdraws from international trade and postpones its own return to prosperity."

OUR FOREIGN TRADE.

From the Nation.
THE foreign trade statistics for March give a graphic illustration of the falling off of the exports of our country. They ought to bring home to the remotest farmer and the smallest trader the stupor of the attitude of those who believe that we can afford to deal with our economic problems from the purely selfish point of view, disregarding the fate of Europe and putting up further tariff barriers to keep out imports. Even in the highest Republican circles in Washington the lesson of the falling off of exports by 436,000,000 as compared with March, 1920, ought to have some effect. Fortunately there are signs that the administration sees that a solution of the European tangle, and notably of the German indemnity question, is very much an American affair and not one in which only Europe is interested. This is the view of so sound a financial expert as Mr. Paul M. Warburg, who has just become chairman of the new International Acceptance Bank. At its opening he stressed the fact that if a reasonable settlement is brought about between the allies and Germany "gradual revival of trade could be expected, and in that case America would have to play a leading part. With gold flowing our way and with the increasing strength of the Federal Reserve System, it will again be plainly up to the United States not to hoard its vast banking strength, but to make it available for other countries for the purpose of once more starting the wheels of commerce going."

ANGLO-JAPANESE ALLIANCE.

Motosada Zumoto in Japanese Advertiser (Tokio).
THE Japanese have a real and profound admiration for the British people on account of their sterling personal qualities, their high civilization and their unique culture. English is destined to become our second national language, and it is from English history and English literature that we get some of our noblest inspirations for reform and progress. World-wide as is the British Empire, Japan is fortunately so far away from the center of that empire and our vital interests are concentrated within so narrow limits, that nowhere do the interests of the two countries come to an essential clash. We do not aspire to a dominant position in the field of world finance and trade. Japan and Britain can, therefore, be good friends without binding themselves by any written engagement, and it would be the height of folly to jeopardize this natural friendship by trying to bolster up an unnecessary and artificial framework of an alliance.

UNIONISTS WIN PARLIAMENT IN ULSTER ELECTION

Craig and De Valera Both Win in County Down.

UNIONISTS GET 40 SEATS, OPPONENTS 12

Ballots Counted in Sealed Room in Belfast, With Police With Rifles at Door;
All Parties Demonstrate.

By the Associated Press.
BELFAST, May 27.—Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein organization, was elected to a seat in the Ulster Parliament on Tuesday. It is announced here today. He was at the head of the poll in the joint Erismagh and Tyrone division, in the elections for the Northern Irish Parliament under the new Home Rule act. Griffith was arrested late last November and has since that time been in Mountjoy prison in Dublin. In County Down, where Sir James Craig, the Ulster Premier, designate, and Eamonn de Valera, Republican leader, were opponents, and where both will be elected, the seats will be divided equally between the two sides, two and two.

Sir James Craig, who polled almost 30,000 votes, established a record for the balloting in Ulster. His nearest competitor, Eamonn de Valera, received more than 16,000 votes. The election of De Valera is in addition to his election to the Southern Parliament for County Clare.

Armagh and Tyrone.
The count in Armagh and Tyrone is belated and the results are not known. The ballots were counted in sealed rooms, with the police armed with rifles at the doors to prevent any attempt to destroy the ballot boxes.

The Nationalists probably will win eight seats and the Sinn Feiners four. The Unionists expected to win 34 of the 62 seats, including those for the university, which will be decided Saturday. They will probably get nearer 40 seats.

Daniel MacManis, Chief Lieutenant in Belfast of Joseph Devlin, the Nationalist leader, had hoped for 14 seats, but did not really believe that more than 12 Nationalists and Sinn Feiners could be returned, and he proved a good prophet.

Did Better Than Expected.
The Unionists have done better in the elections than they anticipated, the Sinn Feiners worse than their prophets predicted and the Nationalists no more than they looked for. The Unionists are, therefore, the only party in Ulster not disappointed.

All, however, are celebrating—the Unionists because they have won; the Nationalists and Sinn Feiners because they have made their protest against the partition of Ireland and believe the protest will have its effect on the minds of the world.

The counting of the ballots will not be completed probably until the end of the week, but so far as the returns go they show that the Unionists made their greatest gains in Belfast, where it is expected they will have 15 or 16 seats.

Devlin to Have Seat.
Joseph Devlin will have a seat for Belfast in the new Parliament, if he decides to sit there, and even he was beaten in his own stronghold for first place on the poll by his Unionist opponent, T. H. Burn. His colleague, Alderman Byrne, was at the bottom of the list, with only 11 votes, or 10,000 fewer than his leader. This was due to the Nationalists giving all their first votes to Devlin.

The Sinn Feiners did better than Byrne, but on the first ballot they were well behind the Unionists, and as apparently neither the Nationalists nor the Sinn Feiners kept their pact to give their second votes for each other's candidates, there is little hope for them in the second ballot.

The Socialists here, as in other constituencies, lost their deposit, which they have to forfeit if they do not receive a certain number of votes.

In Antrim things are going about as expected, the Unionists being pretty certain of six of the seven seats, the other going to Devlin.

Louis Walsh, Sinn Feiner, who was allowed out of the detention camp to take part in the election, and who headed the poll in the county council election, is now nearer the bottom of the poll, although there are a large number of Sinn Feiners in North Antrim and the Glens of Antrim. The Unionist, Barbour, heads the list with some 17,000, as compared with Walsh's less than 5,000.

Derry came out as the Unionist's predicted. They elected their three candidates—all they had nominated, thus leaving the other two seats to

What St. Louis Has to Advertise—More Than Any Other City, Says F. C. Rand

Man Who Will Direct Expenditure of $75,000
Points to Sound Financial Position, Fine
Climate and Greatness of Resources.

Frank C. Rand, chairman of the 1921 Municipal Advertising Fund, under appointment by the Chamber of Commerce, in an address before a luncheon of the chamber at the Planters Hotel today, told of four important things in the commercial and general life of St. Louis which make national advertising of the city's advantages worth while. These four things, he said, are the diversified nature of the city's resources, the soundness of its financial institutions, the lack of a large element of transient labor and the possession of a summer climate which keeps St. Louis from the list of hottest cities.

Rand, who is president of the International Shoe Co., has announced that this year's advertising will seek to increase purchases here by residents of the St. Louis trade territory as well as to bring new industries. A fund of $75,000 is planned, $25,000 of which was appropriated by the city. Business interests are expected to give the rest. The text of Rand's address follows:

"I've accepted the chairmanship of this municipal advertising fund because I believe it one of the most necessary and vital community activities in which St. Louis can indulge. I have accepted because I have faith in St. Louis, and because of this city-building success it has finally attracted the attention of students of city building, economic scholars, and journalists who are beginning to throw the spotlight on us; certainly such a favorable moment is the propitious one for St. Louis to direct both modestly and apathetically toward advertising, and speak for herself. St. Louis should 'crow' a little bit. We should continue that 'crowding,' or advertising, which last year was started so well and with such success.

"Speaking of 'crowding' brings to my mind the incident of the backyard rooster who discovered by chance a large ostrich egg that rolled from some rubbish the housewife had thrown out after housecleaning. He mounted the egg and began to crow lustily until he was interrupted by some 15 or 20 hens. Then, in a pompous manner, as he patted with one foot the extra large ostrich egg, he began, 'Ladies, I have called you together to show you what other communities are doing.'

"That's really the purpose of this meeting—to show you that other cities are intensely preparing to use advertising as a means of city development and especially in preparation for the era of better times that seems just ahead.

Other Cities Advertising.
"Cleveland is preparing plans for a national advertising campaign. Chicago has begun the most extensive advertising campaign yet attempted. Columbus, O., is planning a $100,000 advertising campaign. Detroit is using space in Southern newspapers for tourist travel. Kansas City spent $75,000 in advertising during 1919-1920. Los Angeles is conducting a national campaign for carrying out an advertising campaign in trade journals in 1918, and now has started a national campaign costing $75,000 a year for three years. Sioux City, Ia., is conducting a campaign in trade papers and newspapers in its trade territory. Denver is conducting an extensive campaign for tourists and industries. Omaha began a national campaign in 1918 and has continued it ever since.

"No city in these United States has any more to advertise, any more to be proud of than St. Louis. We have the world's finest; raw materials for almost any industry; fuel at our very doorstep; and, best of all, men and women with the vision of empire builders. Surely no other city has more incentive to shout from the housetops her own praises.

"No city in America has withstood the effects of this temporary depression any better than, if as well as, St. Louis. That is because St. Louis is basically and economically sound. We haven't all of our industrial 'eggs' in one basket—our manufacturing line is diversified. Collapse of the demand in any one industry does not spell doom for St. Louis. The trade and industrial prosperity of this city is founded upon the great necessity of supplying every-day needs to a rapidly developing territory.

Soundness of Financial Position.
"As an evidence of this soundness, and the strength of St. Louis' business resources, St. Louis banks have in one year's time liquidated their debt to the Federal Reserve from $5 to 70 per cent without serious interruption to the general business life of the community. This means that deflation of after-war financing was accomplished in St. Louis in a most orderly fashion. A year ago the reserve of the Federal bank here was below 20 per cent. Today it is over 55 per cent. That doesn't look gloomy, does it?

"Further demonstrating our financial and industrial soundness, the demand deposits in the St. Louis Federal Reserve District show a 'business' deposit as compared to the Federal Reserve Districts of Chicago and Kansas City. The figures show that such deposits dropped from $219,000,000 almost a year ago to $213,000,000 the early part of this month, or approximately $6,000,000. In Kansas City in the same period they dropped about $9,000,000 and in Chicago they fell $45,000,000.

MISSOURI PORTLAND EARNED 4.5 PCT., NOT 20 PCT. IN 1920

Testimony of Assistant to the President of Company at Building Material Investigation Erroneously Reported.

LESS THAN AVERAGE FOR LAST EIGHT YEARS

Inquiry to Be Resumed at Jefferson City Thursday
With Officers of Atlas
Company as Witnesses.

A Jefferson City dispatch in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, reporting the testimony in Attorney-General Barrett's inquiry under the antitrust laws into building materials trade conditions in St. Louis, contained the erroneous statement that the earnings of the Missouri Portland Cement Co. for 1920 were 20.2 per cent. The actual testimony was that the earnings on the total investment of the company for 1920 were 4.5 per cent.

The mistake occurred in reporting the testimony of E. G. Coyle, assistant to the president of the company, regarding the earnings of the St. Louis cement mill of the company, and resulted from a misunderstanding of Coyle's statement, there being considerable confusion in the hearing room at the time the statement was made.

Figures Shown in Record.
Figures placed in the record by Coyle were to the effect that on an average total investment of $6,133,222 the company since 1913 has earned an average of 5.2 per cent, and that the 1920 earning was less than the average for the eight years.

On the St. Louis cement mill, which in 1920 represented an investment of $2,669,000, the earning was 4.2 per cent.

The total investment of the company in 1920 was $5,356,353.33, having been increased to that figure from $5,939,000 in 1913. According to figures placed in the record by Coyle, the lowest earning in the company's history was in 1920, when the earning on the entire invested capital was 4.5 per cent. The standing of the Atlas Portland Cement Co. in the capital stock market, on this basis, shows that the earning on this was approximately 5.2 per cent in 1920.

Atlas Officials to Be Heard.
The hearing of witnesses in the investigation will be resumed in Jefferson City next Thursday, with the standing of the Atlas Portland Cement Co. will testify. This is the largest cement company in Missouri, and, according to officers of other companies who have testified, sets the cement price in St. Louis, the others following the Atlas price.

weather, because we have the smallest degree of humidity. I am going to quote you the latest comparative United States Government figures on the subject of humidity for the four summer months, June, July, August and September.

Seattle, 69; Cleveland, 67; Buffalo, 71; San Francisco, 80; Chicago, 67; Boston, 72; New York, 73; St. Louis, 62.

"St. Louis is the lowest of all these eight American cities in percentage of humidity. The absence of humidity is further borne out by the fact that St. Louis has the lowest infant mortality rate of 15 of the largest cities.

"St. Louis is a vast metropolis because of the richness and wealth of its surrounding territory, and we do not intend to overlook this feature in advertising St. Louis' advantages. St. Louis grows in proportion to the increasing purchasing power and demand of its vast trade territory. One thing particularly has impressed me of late and that is that despite the decreased value of farm products, there is one class of agricultural production that has been least affected—dairying. There has been no spectacular decrease in the price of dairy products, and for that reason Wisconsin today, the largest dairying State in the United States, has not diminished perceptibly in its purchasing power.

Missouri as Dairy State.
"Wisconsin, however, has only three varieties of grass upon which dairying cows can exist, while Missouri is even more of an ideal dairying country, with seven kinds of grasses upon which dairying cattle can feed. And yet, we are apparently overlooking our big opportunity in this respect. We expect to call the attention of interested farmers in the country to the fact that Missouri, from the standpoint of topography of its farm lands, its crops, its grasses and its available markets,

MORGAN AMONG GUESTS WEDNESDAY

Further Loans of Private American Capital Discussed as Means to Get Business 'Back to Normalcy.'

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 27.—"Meetings of best financial minds" have been inaugurated by President Harding and his advisers as means of considering the nation's industrial outlook, with particular reference to the question of extending further loans of American capital to foreign Governments.

Some of the most prominent figures in American finance and industry already have given the President the benefit of their judgment on specific problems affecting the financial world, and in the near future others are to be called to the White House to consult on ways and means to stabilize conditions and hasten "the return to normalcy."

The foundation for a series of discussions on these subjects was laid at a White House dinner Wednesday night, the significance and details of which became known yesterday for the first time.

With Secretary Mellon of the Treasury and Secretary Hoover of the Federal Reserve Board, the President had as his guests for the occasion J. P. Morgan, Paul Warburg and a half dozen other men of great influence and power in financial circles.

Foreign Loans Discussed.
Whether to encourage further loans of private American capital to foreign Governments was one of the questions most seriously considered, with most of the financiers arguing that such extensions of credit presented the most practicable means to stabilize foreign financial conditions and thus to improve the field for American exports. This question already has received much attention by the Cabinet.

Some of the visiting bankers, it was said, expressed concern over the possibility of funds raised in this country by foreign bonds issues being used to buy the products of other foreign countries. The belief was advanced that use of American money in such a manner would result unfavorably to domestic industry, especially farming.

Whether to encourage further loans of private American capital to foreign Governments was one of the questions most seriously considered, with most of the financiers arguing that such extensions of credit presented the most practicable means to stabilize foreign financial conditions and thus to improve the field for American exports. This question already has received much attention by the Cabinet.

Administration officials, however, discounted reports that American money was to be used to any extent in foreign markets by foreign borrowers. Most of the funds to be raised here it was asserted, would be used to retire or fund existing Government indebtedness here.

Schwab Guest at Luncheon.

For luncheon yesterday Mr. Harding had as his guest Charles M. Schwab, who advised particularly regarding the shipping problem. The names of those to be summoned to the White House later were not revealed, but it is generally expected that round table discussions of the financial situation will be a regular feature of the President's program for some weeks to come.

Among those at the dinner were James A. Alexander of the National Bank of Commerce, and Charles A. Sablin of the Guaranty Trust Co., New York; Benjamin Strong, Gov. of New York; Federal Reserve Bank; C. E. Mitchell, National City Bank, New York; William Kent of the Bankers' Trust Co., New York, and H. C. McElldowney, Union Trust Co., Pittsburgh.

Rice Growers' Organization.

HOUSTON, Tex., May 27.—W. S. Strickland, banker, of Lake Charles, La., was elected chairman of the newly organized American Rice Growers' Association at a meeting attended by representatives of the rice districts of Texas and Louisiana here yesterday.

The association is organized as a nontrading corporation under the laws of Louisiana.

President's Memorial Day Message to American Legion

NEW YORK, May 27.

PRESIDENT HARDING in a Memorial Day message to the American Legion, made public last night, expressed hope that the future years would bring less need for further national sacrifices. The message follows:

"Americans have never been much given to the establishment of holidays and festive days. Perhaps our national life has been so short, and entirely within so much of fact and practicality, that we have been little moved by the sentiments that such occasions inspire. Yet, I think no nation has ever established a national day of consecration that represented a more lofty and ennobling sentiment than does our national Memorial Day. To its observance we have brought a great people is ever to entertain for those who have made the great sacrifice in its behalf. Memorial Day marks our recognition of those who, from our national beginnings, have deserved the most that the nation could give of gratitude and appreciation. It reminds us that in every generation, from Lexington to the Argonne, our valorous sons have well deserved the highest tribute that a nation fortified, defended, preserved, could give to them. Whenever the demand has come, and wherever it may have called the sons of our proud land, it has always been answered. Though we have never been a militant or war-loving people, there has been no time when Americans did not rise to the full measure of the requirement which national honor and national safety imposed upon them. When national safety was the cause, the response was always instant and decisive. When civilization summoned, and our sons were called to other seas and skies and soils, we saw the same promptness, the same zeal, the same devotion.

"On this Memorial Day of 1921, we stand, I trust, very close to peace achieved, to safety insured. May it be our common aim and purpose that the coming years, our nation's aim and policy shall be directed to make certain that there shall be less need for further sacrifices, greatest guarantee of the stability, the permanence and the inspiring character of those institutions of liberty to which our nation has been dedicated."

$190,000 FIRM GREW TO $410,000 IN 2 YEARS

After $40,000 Investment, Coal Company Paid Notes for $150,000 and Netted
$260,000.

Frederick W. Kleine, president of the St. Clair Coal & Mining Co., today related in connection with a suit for $40,000 filed by him against the Mulberry Hill Coal Co. for services as vice president and general manager, a story of the growth of a $40,000 investment by a few stockholders in the Mulberry company in a little more than two years to more than $400,000.

Kleine said that in September, 1918, he learned the Mulberry property in the Illinois coal field was for sale. It was priced at $190,000. Associated with him in the purchase, and the amount invested, he said, were: W. T. Koken and E. C. F. Koken, $16,000; Claud D. Hall, $5000; F. W. Kleine and Edward Kleine, $16,000; D. N. Robinson, $1000; Julius Reese, $1000, and Victor Janis, $1000.

The $40,000 thus raised, Kleine said, was paid in cash and notes given for the remaining $150,000. Since that time the notes have been paid off from the earnings of the company; actual improvements, including the purchase of 200 acres of coal land, to the amount of $100,000 have been made; a reserve fund of $80,000 has been set aside; one 25 per cent dividend, amounting to $50,000 has been paid, and there is on hand a surplus of about $30,000. These are in addition to the ordinary operating expenses.

Kleine said he had not been paid anything for operating the mine as vice president and general manager. He values the services at $40,000 and is suing for that amount.

PLAN TO WITHDRAW TROOPS IN SANTO DOMINGO NEARLY READY

Announcement of Details With Approval of President Harding Expected Soon.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 27.—The State Department is understood to practically have completed its detailed plan for withdrawal of the American military Government from the Dominican republic and is expected to make it public soon with the approval of President Harding.

Secretaries Denby and Hughes, who have conferred recently on the subject, were again in conference yesterday and later Secretary Hughes went to the White House for a brief visit. The subject of the discussions was not divulged, although it was presumed it concerned the situation in the Dominican republic.

Those familiar with the problem expressed the opinion last night that if the military Government was withdrawn, American marines probably would be held for a time on the island until the native Government had demonstrated that it was firmly established.

The military Government was established in 1916. President-elect Carvajal, who was prevented from taking office in 1916 by the establishment of the military Government, conferred with Secretary Hughes last Monday and urged withdrawal of the American forces.

ASSEMBLY DECRIES WORLDLINESS AND ADJOURNS SESSION

Presbyterians Condemn Sabbath Desecration and Assail Commercialized
Amusements in Report.

"IRRESPONSIBLE RICH" COME IN FOR BLAME

Divorce Denounced and Certain Conditions Are Pronounced "Distressing"—
Boy Scouts Discussed.

The sixty-first general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States (Southern), which has been in session here since May 19 at Westminster Church, Union and Delmar boulevards, adjourned yesterday after having condemned Sabbath desecration, especially by "commercialized amusements," and decried "the general tide of worldliness."

Several days ago the assembly endorsed the aims of the Lord's Day Alliance, the organization charged by some with working for the enactment of "blue laws." The discussion of Sabbath desecration was included in the report of the Committee on Sabbath and Family Religion, which was adopted, and from which an excerpt follows:

"Conditions are most distressing in the matter of Sabbath desecration, all too prevalent in our country at large, as to have become a mighty current, before which we find ourselves almost helpless.

Amusements Are Specified.
"The commercialized amusements of the time, financed in alarming proportion by the avowed enemies of the godly home and of our Protestant faith, are dependent for the flowing of their stocks and the swelling of their numbers on the robbing our cities of their quiet and holy Sabbath and on drawing young and old to their amusement places by sensational and depraving allurements.

"A general tide of worldliness which came with easy money and with the rise of irresponsible wealth unfortunately has drawn to itself a much younger part of our population than ever before. Now the high school boy and girl know all and do all that years ago may have been known and done by their college elders. Illicit traffic in intoxicants makes our young boys the shining marks for the attacks of the public promiscuous dance is the frequent reception of our high school children."

Denouncing divorce, the report asserted this evil has made America "a reproach even to pagan lands." The desires of some elements of the Southern Presbyterian Church for a strict observance of Sunday were illustrated in the attacks of a number of commissioners on a resolution endorsing the Boy Scout movement. The burden of the opposition was chiefly that Boy Scout troops sometimes take "hikes" on the charge of an orphan's home in South Carolina, said he had seen Boy Scouts taking their parents in automobiles one Sunday for a supper on the banks of a river. "It was nothing more than a Sunday picnic," he declared.

The editor of a church paper at Richmond, Va., said Boy Scouts camped out near there on Sundays, had Sunday school lessons in the open, then "spent the rest of the day on lectures on the Civil War and studying the battlefields around Richmond." Many commissioners spoke in favor of the scout movement, pointing out that individual pastors could prohibit Sunday "hikes," and the resolution was adopted.

The fundamental oath of the Boy Scouts, said one friendly commissioner, "pledges allegiance to God's laws."

Relief Report Adopted.
The report of the Committee on French and Belgian Relief, appropriating $75,000 for various foreign purposes, was adopted. It gives $65,000 for France and Belgium, including $15,000 for a memorial church, and $10,000 for Czechoslovakia.

It was reported that the Sunday school enrollment of the denomination is 370,640, a gain of 13,000 in a year. Sunday school contributions in the last year were $755,117. The assembly voted to adopt for its school the standards of the Association of Southern Colleges and Secondary Schools in all matters pertaining to general equipment, hours of work, educational training, endowment, degrees of faculty members and service generally.

GERMANY NEEDS EVOLUTION, NOT REVOLUTION, LUDENDORFF SAYS

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, May 27.—"Germany needs evolution, not revolution," said Gen. Erich Ludendorff, former First Quartermaster-General of the German army and once Field Marshal von Hindenburg's chief of staff, to a correspondent of the Independence Belge.

"It is madness to think of war against France," the General continued. "We must submit and execute the peace treaty. After her prosperity, Germany must know poverty. It is the best remedy. Work at home is our first need. Work abroad is of secondary importance.

"Union, or at least co-operation, by all parties is needful to give new life to Germany. The press must be organized.

BURLESON GOES TO VIENNA ON COTTON-SELLING VENTURE

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, May 27.—Albert S. Burleson, former United States Postmaster-General, who for several weeks has been investigating the possibility of the cotton market in Germany, started for Vienna yesterday. Later he will visit the Saxony cotton mill districts and then return to Berlin.

While in Berlin Burleson met Chancellor Joseph Wirth and other members of the Cabinet, financial, economic and commercial experts. He said he was convinced that Chancellor Wirth would do his best to live up to the reparations conditions. Burleson is hopeful that considerable amounts of American cotton can be sold in Germany in the near future, he said. The inability in German manufacturers to find a market for more than 25 per cent of their normal output because of the reduced buying power of 200,000,000 consumers in Central Europe, makes the situation difficult.

DUNLOP 31 90c DUNLOP 29 $1.00

This is the same Dunlop 31 for which you paid $1.10 last season.

Standard size and weight for tournament play. Was $1.10 last year.

THERE is no difference in quality between these two balls, the "31" selling at a lower price than the "29" only because it is a trifle too heavy to be used in U. S. G. A. Tournaments under the new regulations as to size and weight. They are popular balls, both with amateurs and professionals.

Ask your professional about Dunlop balls—he knows.

HOW INCREASED MY BEAUTY

And Astonished My Friends by an Amazing Beauty Secret of Old Egypt

At last I found it—the thing for which I had searched for twenty years. If Cleopatra used anything like this old Egyptian beauty secret it is no wonder that she so completely captivated Caesar and Mark Anthony when you consider her other charms. I shall never forget the first night I used Kijja—I was going to the theater and wanted, of course, to look my best. My face was considerably wrinkled and had a number of rather bad complexion blemishes, which I had been trying to get rid of for years and the skin on my neck and back was coarse and somewhat yellow. I tried Kijja with but little hope. But in five minutes after I applied it, I was astonished at the change in my appearance. My skin looked soft and smooth and my neck and arms presented a beautiful soft white appearance and they looked so natural, too—no made-up look—and best of all I appeared so much younger. It seemed almost as if years had been taken from my face in five minutes' time. My friends were surprised. Several asked what I had been doing. I looked so much better and more youthful—they all wanted to know my secret. At first I did not tell them as I wanted to wait and see what kind of permanent effect it produced, but now I know and I feel it has done so much for me that I ought to let its merits be known to every woman. By request the name of the writer of the above is withheld, but you can try Kijja on an absolute guarantee that if it does not produce successful and satisfactory results in every case, in three days' time the manufacturers will refund your money. Your dealer will give you with each bottle of Kijja a valuable booklet entitled, "How to Increase Your Beauty—Secrets and Arts of Fascination employed by Cleopatra, the greatest enchantress of all time." If you do not wish to purchase Kijja, a copy of this booklet will be given you anyway. After using Kijja you will be thankful if you will write what it does for you for publication—your name will not be used.

MONOPOLY IN FIRE INSURANCE CHARGED

Inquiry Witness Says Ten Companies Make $10,000,000 Annually in Secret Profit.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 27.—Testimony tending to show that the New York Fire Insurance Exchange exercises a virtual monopoly over the fire insurance business here and that the 10 leading fire insurance companies of America put aside approximately $10,000,000 annually in unrevealed profits, was given yesterday before the legislative committee investigating the building trust.

Samuel Untermyer, committee counsel, had on the stand Samuel Best, an expert on fire insurance matters, and a publisher of national insurance statistics.

Best testified several of the larger fire insurance companies had made substantial profits in recent years, and added the Globe & Rutgers Co. had earned more than 200 per cent on its capital assets in the five-year period from 1910 to 1919.

$10,000,000 Profit Alleged.

He also testified that 10 of the leading insurance companies did the bulk of the nation's fire insuring, although there were more than 250 companies. He stated the 10 leading companies set aside in 1920 as their total reserves $197,000,000 and the income from that portion not required to pay losses would be about $10,000,000. Untermyer contended that this sum should be used to reduce the amount of premiums paid in by the public.

It was brought out in testimony that mutual companies were at a disadvantage in the New York district due to alleged refusal of the exchange to supply rate-fixing data.

Best said he would approve enactment of legislation requiring the fire insurance exchange to supply its rate data to mutual companies if the latter would stand the cost. He believed that such legislation would assist in destroying the power of the alleged fire insurance monopoly.

Permits on Pledges.

Untermyer denounced as "reprehensible" a practice whereby brokers, licensed by the exchange, were not permitted to do business with any company or agent not a member of the exchange. Best testified certificates from the exchange were obtainable only by two pledges, one requiring that not more than a certain commission be charged and the other that no business would be done by outsiders. Brokers were allowed 5 per cent more commission.

"The public is forced to pay 5 per cent extra in order to perpetuate a monopoly by whose destruction it would benefit," interjected Untermyer.

U. S. Golf Hopes
Are Now Centered

American Women Will Strive to Wrest Honors From British Next Monday.

Hunter Wins British
Golf Title, Beating
Graham, 12 Up and 11

HOYLAKES, May 27.—The British amateur golf championship here today, in the 36-hole final, defeating Allan Graham, Royal Liverpool.

The score was 12 up and 11 to play.

Hunter began the match in a way style, being 6 up at the ninth hole, and at the eighteenth hole he was 9 up.

Hunter began the match in a way style, being 6 up at the ninth hole, and at the eighteenth hole he was 9 up.

By Herbert L. Bourke,

LONDON, May 27.—Your golf invasion of our links failed of its chief purpose, yesterday, so far as the amateurs are concerned, when Fred J. Wright, the last of the 12 who drove off hopefully in the amateur championship tournament of Great Britain on Monday, went down fighting before Bernard Darwin on the nineteenth green.

Miss Alexia Stirling, who will face Miss Cecil Leitch in the first round for the women's championship on Monday, may carry on to the title and one of your pros may win the open championship, but your amateurs, headed by the "Big Three," Evans, Oulmet and Jones, have been swept aside.

Half way through the match yesterday Wright looked like a certain winner, but he appeared to weaken toward the end, with both men under high tension, and finally lost on the extra hole.

Wright drove the much longer ball and, in the early part of the struggle, was more deadly in his putting. Darwin, the golf critic of the London Times, missed no less than six tee shots and it was late in the match before he came on to his best putting.

Both men were painfully slow and deliberate and the match required two hours and 50 minutes. As much was at stake, the gallery, a big one, did not miss a stroke and many drew a sigh of relief when the last American was put out.

Our golfers have generously applauded your players, but it is only natural that the anxiety aroused over a feeling that our title might be lost should find expression in a feeling of relief when that danger passed.

Wright Three Up at the Turn.

Wright took the lead at the third hole and turned for home 3 up in what looked like a comfortable and winning position.

The turning point really came at the tenth where Darwin, after topping his drive, managed to snatch a half because Wright took three putts. This seemed to unsettle the American and, although his style continued to be much more pleasing to the eye than that of fidgety Darwin, his shots were not quite so deadly.

Darwin managed to square the match at the sixteenth and he went to the front at the seventeenth when Wright pulled his drive and took a four against a superb three by his opponent, who dropped his second five feet from the pin and holed out a 3 putt.

Both were plainly nervous in going to the eighteenth and the situation was so tense and dramatic that when

THE PASSING SHOW.

LAST and for our golfing stars. That went across the water. They started out to beat the cars. And then were led to slaughter. The only golfer left was Wright. To battle for Old Glory. But in the final Wright was left. Which ends our thrilling story.

Jack Dempsey's getting into form. According to the papers: He's putting on a daily storm. With his athletic capers. His sparring partners fall as though they'd slipped on a banana. And then the champion ends the show. By throwing Bull Montana.

George Herman Ruth, the King of Swat. And champion home-run knocker. His thirteenth circuit wallop got Off Pitcher Urban Shocker. It was a most prodigious hit. And knocked the record blooie. For it was said the pellet hit "Somewhere" in North St. Louis.

TOUGH LUCK.

Babe Ruth's thirteenth homer had all the ear marks of a hoodoo as Jack Quinn wild heaved the Browns to victory.

Carl Mays has been indefinitely suspended, which is no novelty in the turbulent career of Tanks' underground hero.

A MOMENT WITH THE CON-TRIBS.

Dear Mister Davis: How did you get that way? I mean Chief Sport Salad mixer.

ALL TERRIER CLUB TO HOLD FIRST SHOW AT MISSION INN TODAY

The All Terrier Club's first annual bench show will be held today and tomorrow in the gardens at Mission Inn. The show will be under American Kennel Club rules, with John W. Burton presiding. Entries from Chicago, Louisville, Kansas City, Dallas, Fort Worth, Washington, New York and other cities will be judged. St. Louis will be strongly represented with champions in various classes. After the show each evening, a pedigree parade will be put up the prize for a dancing competition. The couple pronounced the best on the Mission Floor by the appointed judges will be awarded the air-dial.

Wright won the hole and squared the match the crowd of 5000 actually cheered.

The titanic struggle came to an end at the first extra hole. Wright pulled his drive into the rough, was short of the green on his second and still short on his third.

Darwin, on the other hand, reached the edge of the green in two, while Darwin ran two yards past the cup. His next putt for the match was one of the worst on record. He hit the ball feebly and wound up a yard wide of the hole. Wright, however, missed an easy putt for a half and Darwin finally ran one down for the match and received an ovation from the great crowd.

Medal Scores the Same.

It seemed almost as if he had scrambled home rather than won on the merits of the play, but he won. The medal scores for 18 holes: Darwin, 42-38-81; Wright, 40-41-81.

Darwin, who comes from the same family as the celebrated scientist, Charles Darwin of "missing link" fame, reached the semifinal round for the championship in 1909. In addition to being a good, although unorthodox, player, he is one of the most delightful living writers of the game.

ST. LOUIS TENNIS STAR
HEADS TEAM THAT WON
INTERCOLLEGIATE TITLE

Joseph L. Werner, St. Louis tennis star, has been making a remarkable showing this season at Princeton University, where he is captain of the tennis team. The Princeton tennis team recently won the intercollegiate tennis title and during the playing of the schedule Werner only lost one singles match. In the match against Yale he dropped two close sets, 6-4, 6-4, to Williams the first singles man. Princeton defeated Yale, 7 to 2.

In a match between Princeton and the West Side Tennis Club, Werner defeated S. Howard Voshell in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2. This was a big upset. In the national indoor championship the Princeton star met Voshell. Each player won a set, and with the score four games all in the third set, Voshell defaulted.

In winning the intercollegiate championship the Princeton team defeated the leading tennis players of Harvard, Yale, Boston Tech, Swarthmore, Rutgers, Lafayette, Pennsylvania and Philadelphia College.

The college champions will meet the combined team of Oxford and Cambridge universities at Seabright about the middle of July. The English players will oppose the combined team of Yale and Harvard at the Longwood Club, Boston, on July 4.

Werner is planning to enter a number of important tournaments during the coming summer. Following the intercollegiate championship singles and doubles on June 27, he expects to enter the Missouri Valley event at the Triple A Club on July 4. He hopes to bring Dean Mathey, former Princeton player, to St. Louis for the Missouri Valley event. If Mathey is unable to come he may secure the entry of E. T. Herndon, who plays the No. 2 position on the Princeton team.

$50 FIGHT TICKETS ALL
SOLD; TOTAL RECEIPTS
THUS FAR ARE $574,264

NEW YORK, May 27.—Cheaper seats or none for the Dempsey-Carpenter bout will be the lot of the ring enthusiast who has delayed ordering tickets.

All $50 reservations for the Jersey City battle July 2 have been sold. Promoter Tex Rickard announced here today.

The receipts to date are $574,264, which is $100,000 greater than the great intake for the Dempsey-Willard battle in Toledo in 1919.

TILDEN DRAWS BYE IN PARIS TENNIS TOURNAMENT

PARIS, May 27.—The schedule of the matches in which Americans will play tomorrow, the first day of the world's hard court tennis championship tournament at St. Cloud, follows:

Arnold Jones will meet M. Cousin of France; Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory and Miss Edith Sigourney will meet Suzanne Lenglen and Madame Golding; Francis T. Hunter will meet M. Albarran of France.

William T. Tilden II of Philadelphia, the world's grass court champion, has protested against a day of enforced idleness.

Dundee-Freedman Bout Tonight.

CHICAGO, May 27.—Johnny Dundee of New York and Sator Freedman of Chicago meet at East Chicago tonight in a 10-round match to decide which one shall oppose Benny Leonard in a lightweight championship bout at Benton Harbor, Mich., on July 4. Freedman has been signed for the Leonard fight, but the tactics stipulate that he must defeat Dundee to secure the match.

Bezdek Will Enter Team.

CHICAGO, May 27.—Penn State College is the first Eastern institution to signify its intention of competing in the National Collegiate Athletic Association championship track and field meet at Stagg Field on June 18. Athletic authorities at the University of Chicago announced today. Coach Hugo Bezdek of Penn State sent word yesterday that the college would enter a team.

FAMOUS FOOTBALL STAR
HERE TO CONFER ABOUT
PIKEWAY COACHING JOB

C. O. Applegram, an all-Western and second all-American guard while at Illinois University two years ago, and last year coach at Allegheny College, was in conference with Director of Athletics Rider, at Washington University, today.

Applegram is one of several men being considered for the position of assistant coach in football, basketball and other sports at the local university. He is 6 feet 3 inches tall and besides his football honors was an all-Western basketball guard during his career at Illinois.

Coach Rider's choice of an assistant will be announced later.

ST. L. U. HIGH-WESTERN GAME ENDS IN WRANGLE

ALTON, Ill., May 27.—St. Louis University High School's hitherto unbeaten team left the field at the end of the sixth inning of a game with Western Military Academy yesterday with the score a tie, 1-1.

The St. Louis high school men refused to abide the umpire's decision that Weston had failed to touch the bag in rounding third base and that, instead of scoring a run, he was out. The run would have broken the tie and put the visiting club in front.

Western claimed a 9-0 victory on a forfeit.

The batteries were: Western—Fitz and Gregory; St. Louis U.—Jones and Westhus.

CARPENTIER HAS FAST
WORKOUT AGAINST GANS
AND OLD JOE JEANETTE

NEW YORK, May 27.—The mixed-up schedule that Georges Carpentier is trying to follow was set aside yesterday. Young Carpentier would be no more boxing for the week. Deschamps changed his mind and Georges enjoyed four rounds of sparring. He had it out for two rounds with Joe Jeanette and followed with two will-o'-the-wisp rounds with Italian Joe Gans.

Gans is a full-time speed maker. Joe was never a medal bearer for dash, but Carpentier managed to get the speed test by going around the ring with the windward right, that has impressed the onlookers so much, was in evidence; but it was not dropped down with the jolt that Bomby Wells and Joe Beck must have felt. That blow is Carpentier's best punch. He used it on Levinisky and put a blight on the latter's career when they met across the river.

14 EVENTS ON TWO-DAY
AUTO RACING PROGRAM

There will be 14 events on the auto racing program at Maxwellton Track Sunday and Monday. Sunday there will be five auto racing events, one aviation act and the auto polo contests. Decoration day the program will have two features, which are similar to Sunday's, the aviation and auto polo, but the race events will be different and will include additional entries.

Motor cycle events will be added on Monday if the entry list meets the requirements of the promoters. There will be no admission fee for an auto and no parking charges.

The entry list to date includes Buchanan, Rountree, Chatterton, Saries, Fosnaugh, Schellbell, Costa, Stone, Watters, Gray, Snowden, Le Faro and Boyd.

The aviation feature will include a change from auto to airplane by Daredevil John Hall. He will change from Fosnaugh's Pomocar Sunday just previous to the "Semicentury Sweepstakes" hop-off.

HIGH SCHOOL NINES TO PLAY FINALS TOMORROW

Soldan and Cleveland, and Central and McKinley will meet tomorrow afternoon at High School Field for the final baseball games of the school season. Cleveland, the defending title last Saturday, but the other places are still in doubt.

A victory for Soldan will give the West Enders a tie for second honors with Central. McKinley is tied with Yeatman for last place, but a victory tomorrow will give the Crimson third place. Yeatman finished its season with the Cleveland game last Saturday.

"CHICK" EVANS FLIES
TO PARIS GOLF EVENT

LONDON, May 27.—Charles (Chick) Evans of Chicago, who participated in the British amateur golf championship at Hoylake, but was eliminated, left here today by airplane for Paris. He will enter the French golf championship.

Bethany Has a Babe Ruth.

BETHANY, W. Va., May 27.—Bethany College has a Babe Ruth in Harry Randolph, star pitcher of the team. Randolph has made seven home runs this season. When not pitching Randolph plays first base, as his hitting is needed by the team. Randolph also played on the football squad last year, starting at full-back and center. He is a member of the junior class. Big league scouts have been watching him.

Chicago—Penn State College is the first Eastern school to enter the national intercollegiate track meet here June 18.

Mrs. Solomon Says:—

By Helen Rowland

Being the Confessions of the Seventh-Hundredth Wife.

HOW fair, my Daughter, is the advertisement of the Bachelor Apartment! How more alluring than a florist's window are its promises, how more insidious than strong wine are its blandishments!

Lo, he that hath long suffered the horrors of an hotel and the boredom of a boarding-house, readeth it, and is hypnotized. He cannot believe the testimony of his own eyes.

For, behold! it offereth him all those things for which his spirit yearneth. Yet, even "the sociability of a club, the convenience of an hotel, the privacy of an home, the pleasant quiet of a library, and the economy of single blessedness." It boasteth of its lounges, its roof-garden, its sun-parlor, its gymnasium, and its music-room.

It is as one that saith:

"Come, all ye, that are lonely and in fear of WOMEN! For, here, ye shall find safety and succor from the maddening girls!"

And, he that believeth its dulcet words, saith in his heart:

Oh joy! Is this not Paradise upon earth?

"Go to! Wherefore have I hearkened unto the call of spring, and permitted myself to dream of a suburban bungalow and a menage-a-deux, of a damsel in a pink negligee, and a breakfast-table tete-a-tete?"

"For, verily, verily, in NO HOME shall a man find the privacy of a club and the pleasant quiet of an hotel!"

"Wherefore, then, shall I exchange all these precious things for matrimony, the privilege of making my wife's coffee in the morning, and the chance to watch her burn the toast, to share the newspaper with her, to shake down the furnace, and to fight over the towels and brushes?"

"Fool that I am! Whither have I been drifting that I have permitted this BLONDE to lead me in the pleasant paths of sentiment and the dangerous windings of tender conversation; to lure me into the whispering of sweet nothings, and to tempt me into long strollings beneath the spring moon?"

"For what are the joys of home, compared to the freedom of a bachelor flat? And what are the compensations of a bungalow-with-a-mortgage—compared to the comforts of a parlor-kitchenette-and-bath with valet service?"

"Nay, nay, thou Siren! Get thee behind me!"

"For, just in time have I heard the call of the wild-bachelor-apartment, and my answer is:

"Hallelujah! Give me liberty or give me death!"

Selah.

NEW AND ORIGINAL
FASHION DESIGNS

By Mildred Lodewick

GINGHAM is not being introduced into polite society for the first time this summer, for it was several years ago that we removed it from the kitchen to the front porch, but its popularity could not remain through another summer if it did not diversify itself by means of some new quips and turns. So now the new gingham frocks we see are trimmed with such modish things as pointed organdy banding, the popular fagoting stitch, and smartest of all, the introduction of an organdy gumpie.

For the gumpie has been gradually working its way into a nook in the feminine heart, until this season it may be considered as an earmark of the fashions. It is not likely that it will become popular, except possibly in conjunction with gingham, but it is at least new and smart.

An exceedingly pretty frock, exploiting an organdy gumpie, is offered in my design, the gingham being in any color desired, and the organdy white, trimmed with bias bands of the gingham.

The bodice is cut lower in front than in the back, where tiny buttons serve to fasten it. Deep pockets in the skirt afford the only trimming in their rather pretentious flaps, which are of the organdy, banded with the gingham on the bias.

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE

The Great Jury.

PUBLIC opinion may not always be right. But it usually is. Whenever, in the history of the world, the people have been able to get all the evidence, they have decided wisely.

Lately a very important man became involved in a particularly offensive scandal. He held a high position in a very important institution.

He had been led to believe that public opinion was not a factor in his actions. And when he was told by his friends that it was against him, he continued calmly in his position.

A short time ago he found it necessary to resign. No immediate pressure had been brought to bear on him. There was no method by which his associates could have got rid of him if he had chosen to hang on.

But the force of public opinion was manifest in the press, and in the attitude of the people he met. He could stand it no longer. So he quit.

Time was that important people were either greatly overestimated or very cruelly misjudged. But that time has passed.

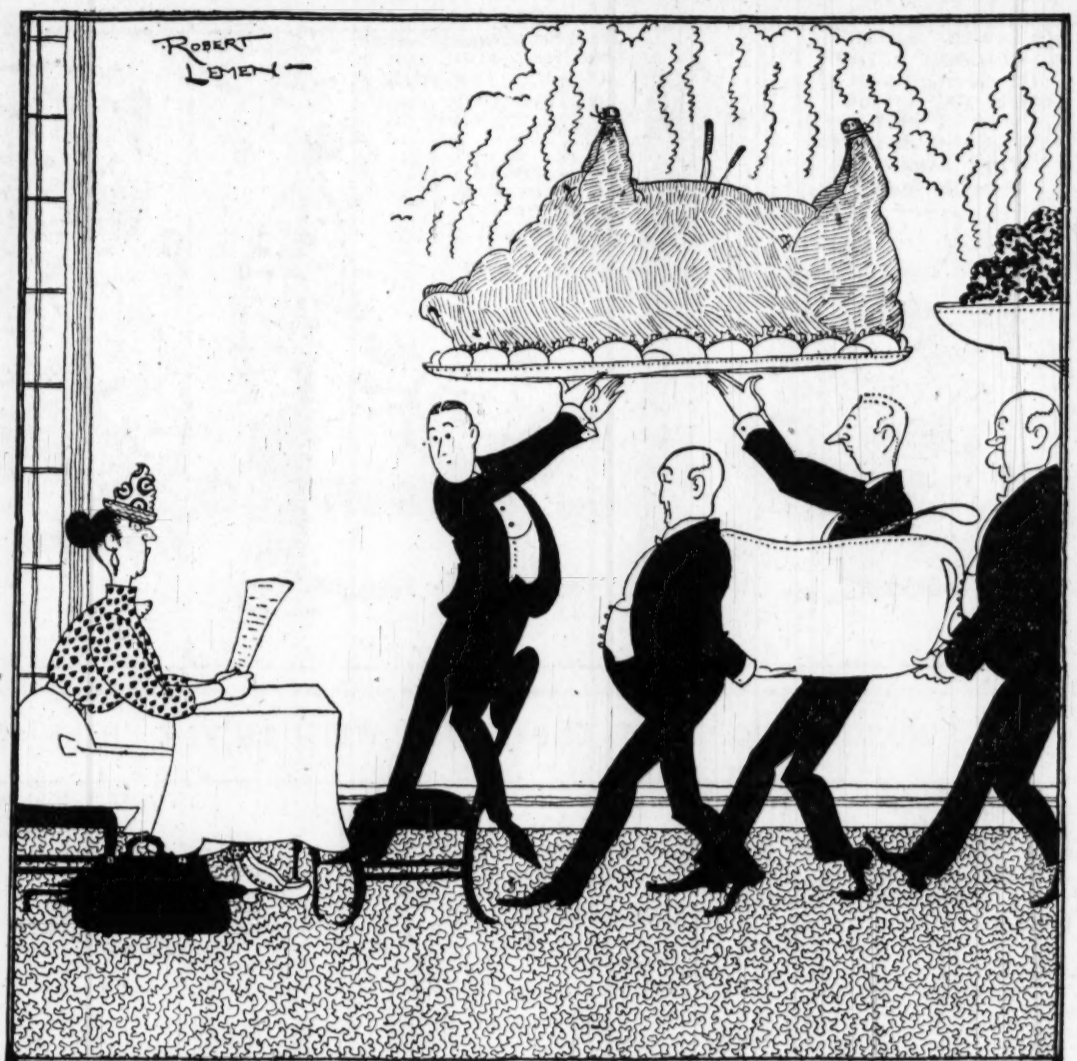

The newspapers bring the evidence of public opinion to the jury. The jury weighs, examines, considers and brings in the verdict. Sometimes men who are highly honored prove to be unworthy of the trust reposed in them, but that is because all the evidence was not at hand at the time of their elevation. Sooner or later the people learn the truth and then act.

This is true of its opinion of parties, of individuals, of nations. It is fashionable to say that we despise public opinion, and that if we are confident that our own characters are what they should be what other people think can make no difference.

That attitude will get us into trouble sooner or later, even if it happens to be right. But such an opinion is seldom justified. If all men despise us there is something despicable about us. No man will be misjudged by his fellows forever. In the end the great jury will bring in its verdict, and it will be a pretty accurate verdict.

(Copyright, 1921.)

(SECOND INSTALLMENT)
"WELL, if it seems so queer as all that, why not blow yourself?" offered Junius with perfect good nature. "Come along."

"Garn!" snarled the other. So Junius turned away and walked down the strand alone. Outward, the ground swell broke and came rushing in with long-spaced undulations, and as he stood at the verge, shrinking in his nakedness, the great flames suddenly through its great red archway and turned all the world to tinted glory. Fair across to him was flung a shining path. It seemed as if he had only to step out along that straight way of escape, and for an instant he had a yearning to try. Never in his life had he followed a single course to a definite end, and what could be better now than to choose one at last, to follow, to go on following—and not to return.

He looked down at his body and saw as a revelation the pitiful weakness of his strength—how scrawny he was of limb, how bloated about the middle, and his skin how soft and leoprous white. And there came upon him then a sudden physical loathing of himself, a final sense of disaster and defeat.

"If I could only begin again," thought Junius Peabody, and stopped and laughed aloud at the wish which is old as folly and futile as sin. But he had no relief from laughter, either, for it was the same he had just heard from the Sydney Duck, a sort of hiccup. So he stopped that, too, and strode forthright into the wash.

Something flung against his shin and tripped him. He sprawled awkwardly from a singular impact, soft though solid. He could see the object floating on the next wave and was curious enough to catch it up. It was a rough lump of some substance, a dirty grayish-brown in color, or the size of a boy's football. The touch of it was rather greasy.

Junius stayed with the trove in his hands and the tingling of an odd excitement in his mind.

There was a sound from the shore and the Sydney Duck hurried up behind him to the edge of the water, both hands clawed, his little eyes distended.

"You've got it!" He took two steps after a retreating wave, but the next drove him hopping. It was strange to see the fellow drawn by a frantic eagerness and chased again by the merest flicker of foam, lifting his feet as gingerly as a cat.

"What have I got?" asked Junius, standing at mid-thigh where the surf creamed in between them.

"It's the stuff! Chuck it over—wha-ii!" Sydney's voice rose to a squeal as a frothing ripple caught his toes.

Junius came wading shoreward, but he did not relinquish the lump when the other felt and paddled it feverishly, babbling.

"Look at that—look at that! All smooth an' soft—an' kind of silky like. Oh, no, we 'in't struck it fair! This time, nor nothin'—oh, now! Mytey, I tell you—by Gaw, I tell you it's the real stuff!"

"But oughtn't there be an odor—a perfume?"

"Not yet—not while it's fresh. That comes after. And any'ow, what else could it be—ey?"

Junius shook his head.

"Eh, I'll show you, you poor flat!" The larkin raged about like a man in a strong temper. "Where's a nail? Gimme a nail, a long nail, or a piece of wire—ell, I'll show you!"

He snatched up a strip of plank from the sand and wrenched a rusty spike from it. With swift, jerky gestures he gathered a few dry chips and splinters, whipped a match, and set them alight. In this brief blaze he heated the spike and then applied it to the lump. It sank smoothly, leaving a little melted ring around the hole.

"Ambergris!" he yelled. "Worth near two pound an ounce, right 'ere in Futufu!"

"Eh, and the 'arf of it's mine," he added, with a startling shift to the most brazen impudence.

Junius regarded him, incredulous.

"What? That's wot! Wasn't I here? 'In't I been pailin' along of you? It's a fair divvy. W'y, damn your soul," he screamed in a sudden feline blast of fury, "you don't think you're goin' to 'og my 'arf an' all!"

"Your half?" repeated Junius. "Huh—nothing small about you, is there? Why, you weren't anywhere near when I found it. Didn't you pass up the swim?"

Just here the Sydney Duck made his mistake. He acted by his lights, which were narrow and direct, and he hit Junius Peabody suddenly in the smiling face of him and knocked him reeling backward. The next instant he was running for the nearest palms with the prize tucked under one arm.

JUNIOUS sat on the sand and blinked, and at first he felt rather hurt, for he was not used to being treated so, at least not while he was sober. And thereafter he grinned, for such was his way of turning aside a casual unpleasantness. But finally came the throb of a strange new emotion, as if someone had planted a small, hot coal in his breast.

Never before had Junius Peabody known the sting of a living anger. But never before had Junius Peabody been reduced to a naked Junius Peabody, dot and carry nothing—penniless, desperate, and now cheated of a last hope. That made the difference.

He struggled up and climbed anyhow into trousers, coat and shoes, and set off a shambling trot, keeping the larkin in sight.

Sydney dodged in among the trees, found them too scant for cover, and swung up the shore. He turned, questing here and there, shouting as he ran. From a hollow another figure started up to join him, a bearded, heavy-set rogue, whose abnormally long arms dangled like an ape's out of his sleeveless shirt. Junius recognized Willems, the third of their party the night before. The two beachcombers ran on together, footing briskly past the long boat sheds and the high white veranda of Bendemeer's place.

Under this iron that stood the man Bendemeer himself, cool and lathy in spotless ducks, planted there, as was his morning custom, to oversee and command all his little capital, the center of a trading monopoly of the old type and chief seat of as strange and absolute a tyranny as the world still offers room for; at once the best-loved and the best-hated individual in his sphere of influence.

Against Bendemeer was no scandal, only curses and bitterness. For his peculiarity took the especially irritating form of fair dealings with some thousands of brown-skinned natives and no dealings at all with any man of his own color—except to beat him at strict business and then to sell him as much villainous liquor as he could at the highest possible price. As he leaned there indolently in his doorway he could measure his own land as far as he could see on either side, a small part of his holdings in plantations and trading stations throughout the archipelago. Off-shore lay anchored his likely Jane, flagship of a smart little navy. His gang of boys was hustling cargo out of her in surfboats, and both boys and boats were the handiest and ablest that could be found anywhere for that ticklish work. He held only to his head to view the satisfactory bulk of his sheds and dependencies, solid, new-painted. The house at his back was trim, broad, and comfortable, and in the store-room underneath lay thousands of dollars' worth of assorted trade goods, all of which would eventually become copra and great wealth.

"I've been robbed!" Peabody wheezed, and pointed a wavering hand. "Those chaps there—robbed!"

Bendemeer glanced aside up the strand after the disappearing ruffians and then down at the complainant, but otherwise he did not move, only stayed considering from his lean, leathery mask, with still eyes, outward-looking.

"What do you care?" he said idly. "You'll be dead in a month anyhow."

Junius gaped toward him dizzily. He could not believe that he had heard aright. "But, say—they've stolen my property!"

Bendemeer shot a blue ring of smoke into the sunshine. "In that case you've lost it. They're heading for the Rocks, and once they've gone to earth there you never could find them—you'd be torn to pieces if you did."

He flicked the ash of his cheroot in a pause. "I suppose you mean I might help you," he continued. "I might, but I won't. I've seen a good many of your kind before, drift stuff that gets washed up on the beach. You're not worth it. And now, I'd be obliged if you'd kindly get the hell out of my front yard. You're interfering with the view."

Junius Peabody found himself sprawling away through the sunlight on Futufu beach once more. A dead calm held the air. Under the steady, low organ note of the reef he could hear only the drag of his own steps, the curious, unforgettable "shr-r-ring" of boot leather on coral.

Futufu beach lay stark and aching white before him. The two thieves had long since lost themselves among the palms. Down by the water's edge a couple of Bendemeer's boat boys were salvaging odds and ends lost overboard in an upset in yesterday.

SOCRATES.

"The wisest of men"—Plato.

SOCRATES was born at Athens about 460 B. C. His father, Sophroniscus, was a sculptor, and for the first part of his life Socrates followed the same profession. Like all other Greek youths he was drafted into the army in time of peace, and served the Athenians in three important campaigns. On these occasions he first came to the notice of his countrymen. His courage and firm attitude during all dangers of attack or retreat, his endurance against heat, cold, lack of food, fatigue, earned for him the respect of all who met him.

Suddenly he gave up sculpture and devoted himself to the work of a philosopher. Unlike others, however, he did not teach in a school, he had no regular pupils or disciples, and he steadfastly refused payment for his instruction. Instead, he spent his whole day in the streets waylaid any passerby who might be willing to converse. His method might be called "cross-examination." By a circuitous route of questions he made people strip off for themselves the veil of self-deception which so commonly hides a man's real self from him. This was the meaning of his favorite saying, "Know thyself."

Such an original mode of teaching attracted much attention, and many strangers came to Athens to make his acquaintance. Externally, he was the very opposite of what we call the Greek type of beauty, for he was short, sturdy, and his head was large, with a snub nose and a projecting forehead.

One result of his fame was that against his will he was dragged into politics. But this only served to show his inflexible honesty. Once he was presiding judge over some officers for whose punishment the public was clamoring and the court wished to condemn them without observing legal form, but Socrates refused in the face of the populace. On another occasion, having with four others been ordered unjustly to confiscate some property, he refused to obey even at the peril of his life.

Yet he had many enemies. Foremost among them were those forced by his questions to confess their incapacity and ignorance before a laughing crowd. Aristophanes, the famous comic poet, and the tragic poet Menander were the most bitter enemies of Socrates. The latter charged Socrates with desecrating the gods and thus corrupting youth, and had him brought to trial.

Socrates behaved with the fortitude that was in accord with his philosophy. He used no persuasion or artifice, but stated his case simply and fairly. The verdict was guilty. It was the custom in Athens for the condemned to suggest what punishment they considered just. Had Socrates desired to escape death, which was demanded by the prosecutor, he could have done so by suggesting a heavy fine or banishment. But he was 70 years old and had no fear of death. So he said that at the request of his friends he would consent to mention the sum of 5 minas ($100, roughly) as a fine. This was a calculated affront and as a result he was sentenced to death. This was carried out by making him drink a draught of hemlock.

He died deeply regretted by his friends and pupils, who numbered among them Plato, Aeschines, Alcibiades, Xenophon and Euclid of Megara.

IODINE STAINS

POUR kerosene on the stain, then wash as usual. Every speck of the stain will come out.

day's heavy surf. They did not waste a thought or a look on him. He was many degrees less important than a lot of other rubbish around there. He might just as well, he might much better, sluff down in a sodden heap and let the rest of the jetsam and yet he did not. . . . And he did go on. For some obscure, irrational human reason, he did go on. Perhaps because of the tiny coal in his breast, blown red by Bendemeer's blasting contempt.

ON the southern tip of Futufu stands Tenbow Head, the end of a rough little bit of land known locally as the Rocks, though there is neither rock nor head. Tenbow is a wreck of shattered coral terraces, clad in the eager growths which profit by its trifling rise and which alone do profit. For the rest it remains the island jungle, a section apart and untouched, almost impenetrable.

Junius Peabody began his exploration of this cheerful region by falling on his face in a gully and bruising his nose very grievously. He found no trail to guide him up the slope. The footing crumbled; tempting beds of moss and fern slipped away from his clutch; twisting lianas caught his ankles and sent him sprawling. He had to creep among jagged teeth that sliced his flimsy garments and his putty-soft flesh. And when a loosened mass slid gently over at a touch and caught and crushed an arm, he scarcely wondered whether any personal power had directed. It was all the same.

For a long time he lay looking at his pulped fingers and the driven drops of blood from the quick of his nails, sensing the exquisite pain almost as a luxury, hugging it to him. But at length he stirred and began to wriggle forward again.

"If I'm going to die anyway," said Junius Peabody, "I'm going to die doing this." Which was an extraordinary remark on all accounts.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

In Vain Bluffer Tries All His Tricks.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Don't scoff at one who runs away;
He'll live to scoff at you some day.

—Old Mr. Toad.

"I GUESS we don't know much," said Boxer to his twin sister, Woolf-Wool, as the two little cubs were talking over their meetings with Bluffer the Adder. "I guess we've got a lot to learn. It was bad enough to be fooled once by that fellow, but to be fooled a second time makes me feel pretty small and very foolish. But were we to know he wasn't dead? I ask you, Woolf-Wool, how were we to know he wasn't dead?"

"I'll show you one of these days," said Mother Bear, who had come up just in time to hear Boxer. "It is an easy matter to make Bluffer give been struck. Boxer and Woolf-Wool thought he had. He twisted and turned and squirmed as if in great pain. In a moment he rolled over on his back, his mouth half open and his tail wriggling feebly. Presently the tail stopped wriggling. Bluffer was motionless.

"He's dead this time, anyway!" cried Boxer.

"He does look so," agreed Mother Bear. "Turn him over on his stomach, so you can have a good look at that patchy coat of his."

Boxer reached out and gently rolled Bluffer onto his stomach. Instantly Bluffer rolled back and lay stomach up. If ever there was a surprised little Bear that little Bear was Boxer. Again he reached over and turned Bluffer over. The instant he took his paw away Bluffer rolled onto his back.

Mother Bear chuckled. "I told you," said she, "that it is an easy matter to make Bluffer give himself away when he is playing dead. He seems to think that in order to appear dead he must lie on his back. All you have to do to find out whether he is bluffing is to turn him on his stomach. Right away he'll roll over on his back. That Snake is no more dead than we are, and for all his ugly looks and his pretending he is no more to be feared than his small cousin, little Mr. Garter-snake."

"Now take a good look at him so that you know a member of his branch of the Snake family whenever you meet one. That turned-up nose, because of which he is called the Hognosed Snake, is all you need see to know a member of his particular family. Now I think I'll make an end of Bluffer."

But Bluffer thought otherwise. At these words he suddenly came to life, ran between the twins so that they got in the way of each other as they tried to grab him, and disappeared in a hole between the roots of a tree.

"I wish they had caught him," sighed Old Mr. Toad, who had seen everything from a hiding place under a piece of bark. "I must get away from here before he comes out again or there is likely to be one less Toad in the Great World."

So as soon as Mother Bear and the cubs were out of sight Old Mr. Toad started off as fast as he could go.

For Internal Use
—or Bath

Epsom Salt has two uses. Taken internally, it purges and purifies the system. In a bath, it is a recognized aid for reducing flesh.

Allan's Epsom Salt, snow-white and pure in the Sanitary Sealed Package, is used for both purposes.

When you buy Allan's for 10c you buy more than just an internal dose. It's easy to say Allan's—and it means a lot—for Allan's is pure.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

PIE.

The Bakers of America have decided to standardize pie fillings and print the formula so that the world may know what pies contain.

How often, at our mid-day lunch,
We used to watch the world go by
As we would sit and gently munch
Our rich and soggy wedge of pie.
We rather sensed than tasted it;
We neither knew nor cared to know
What it contained, as bit by bit,
It went the way all pie should go.

One does not seek to rend apart,
Or do a canvas violence
To learn what makes a work of art,
So pleasing to the finer sense.
One never asked the chemist's aid
To analyze a rare old wine
Or to discover just what made
A dry Martini so divine.

And so with pie, we had no thought
To ask what lay beneath the crust;
As our incisors deftly wrought,
We took the contents quite on trust.
Though apple, prune or apricot;
Though mince-meat, fresh, or extra dry
Rhubarb or quince, it mattered not,
Enough for us that it was pie.

And that enough for us is still,
We have an instinct that forbids
Our ever knowing how they fill
The space that lies between its lids.
Though in the papers day by day
A list of formulae we find,
Our eyes we'll quickly turn away
And eat it, as we have done, blind.

Human Carelessness.

"Do you remember when some uninformed people used to risk their lives by blowing out the gas?"
"Yes," replied Uncle Bill Bottletop. "And we still have the same style of foolishness. Only, being as there is no gas to blow out, men show their ignorance by drinking the alcohol out of the flivver."—Washington Star.

Bewildering Titles.

She Knew.

"Ah, young lady!" solemnly began the horse-faced stranger in front of the movie theater box office. "Are you acquainted with Shakespeare?"
"Ah, don't try to kid me," replied Daphne, the ticket seller. "Shakespeare's dead."—Kansas City Star.

We sat in front of them at the theater. It was during the tense minute of the play when the heroine was about to part forever with her sweetheart.

"Do you really like him so much?" asked her mother.
"Oh, no," replied Elizabeth. "It isn't that; but he happens to like the same kind of candy I do."—Kansas City Star.

He Had Credentials.

A Washington mother was not particularly pleased by the willingness of her daughter to proceed upon various excursions with a young man from another city.
"I would much prefer," said mother, "that you would not go sailing with that young man, Marie; I don't believe he knows a thing about a sailboat."

The director, who has a reputation for being rather harsh and overbearing in his methods, was giving his leading man a tongue-lashing that fairly turned the atmosphere blue. Through it all, however, the victim leaned gracefully against the wall and smiled happily.
"What the deuce are you grinning about?" barked the director. "Do you like to be cursed?"
"Why, yes, I rather enjoy it," chuckled the actor. "It recalls the good old days, you know, when I played Uncle Tom and was beaten to death every night by Simon Legree."—Film Fun.
